Capital Shocked at Kearny Casualties

11, REPORTED MISSING, ARE THOUGHT DEAD

Damaged Destroyer In Port; Navy Says 10 Injured In Torpedoing.

COMMUNIQUE TERSE

Observers Believe Engine Room of Craft Hit By Projectile.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON— (AP) —Secretary Hull today characterized the torpedoing of the United States destroyer Kearny as another in a series of incidents illustrating Adolf Hitler's known and confessed effort to seize control of the seas as well as the continents.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON —(AP)— With opponents crying "gag rule," the senate foreign relations committee voted 12 to 9 today to hold closed hearings, beginning tomorrow, on the house-approved ship arming bill.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—The capital was jolted today by the news that the torpedo which hit the U. S. S. Kearny took a toll of 21 casualties—10 injured and 11 listed as "missing," but believed dead

The navy formally identified the attacker as "a submarine, undoubtedly German," but this detail of the official announcement was momentarily overshadowed by the unlooked for disclosure that the Atlantic fleet has sustained its first personnel losses.

When the torpedoing of the new 1,630-ton destroyer was first made known Friday, the navy's communique said "no casualties were indicated" and relief tem-

Wait Word of Knox Youth On Kearny

FREDERICKTOWN — Mr and Mrs. Edward Burson of here were anxiously awaiting word today from their son, Paul, who was reported to be aboard the U. S. destroyer Kearny which limped into an unnamed port yesterday with 11 of the crew missing and 10 injured following an attack last week by a submarine off the coast of Iceland.

Burson, who was recently assigned to the Kearny, was not listed among the injured or missing reported by naval authorities in Washington today.

Retired Rear Admiral Explains His Theory of What Happened When Torpedo Exploded In U. S. Destroyer

By REAR ADMIRAL YATES STIRLING, JR.
(U. S. Navy, Retired.)
(Written For the United Press)

NEW YORK—On the basis of my long experience with destroyers and the brief official announcements, I believe that the torpedo launched at Kearny struck her forward engine room and penetrated into the forward living quarters of a part of the crew.

There is at least an even chance that some of the bodies of the 11 missing sailors, if not all of them, are in flooded compartments behind water-tight bulkheads, and will be recovered now that the ship has reached port.

The Kearny probably was cruising at medium speed when she was hit. A torpedo explodes the moment it touches the side of a ship. A considerable hole, hence, probably was torn in Kearny's side. The torpedo, however, probably did not pass all the way through her. The force of such an explosion is inward and would be likely to kill all men in the engine room—and the ratings of the casualties, (firemen, water tenders, etc.) would indicate that was the room hit—and might well break into at least one adjacent compartment and kill men there.

Destroyers like Kearny have two boiler rooms. Entrance is made exclusively from the deck, meaning that each room is a separate water -tight compartment. With one room, or even the forward engine room and the adjacent crew's quarters flooded, Kearny still could make about 25 knots, with power supplies by the boilers in the second engine room.

Judging from the location given as the point of attack, 350 miles south and west of Iceland, and the time, Friday morning, I would judge Kearny reached port at Halifax, or some other point on the North American mainland or adjacent thereto, rather than at Iceland.

Iceland, so far as I know, is without adequate facilities for quick and safe repairs and Kearny's commander hardly would head for such a port unless his ship was in danger of sinking—and I judge Kearny was not.

City Bristles With Arms as Nazis Approach

Stalin Proclaims State of Siege; German Forces Held Up In Gigantic Battles 57 Miles From Capital; Reds Say Hitler Losses Hit 4,000,000.

BULLETIN

BERLIN — (UP) — Nazis reported today that the Luftwaffe had launched a blitz bombing offensive against Moscow on a scale comparable to the heaviest air attacks on London.

(By Associated Press)

Moscow became one vast bristling fortress today under a state of siege proclaimed by Premier Joseph Stalin as the city's millions braced themselves for the impact of advancing German forces only 57 miles away.

The broadcast of Stalin's proclamation by the Moscow radio preceded an official Soviet announcement that gigantic battles were raging on two approaches to the city, in the Mozhaisk and Maloyaroslavets sectors to the west and southwest.

That the German drive was being held up there was indicated by two successive communiques, late yesterday and at noon today, both reporting particularly fierce fighting in those sectors.

Mozhaisk is 57 miles airline west of Moscow, on the railroad running to Vyasma, the central-front sector where attacks and counter-attacks surged from the start of the German Moscow offensive on Oct. 2.

Maloyaroslavets is 65 miles below the city on the rail line to Kaluga, communications center about 25 miles rather to the southwest.

The Moscow radio said the Germans attempted to turn the Russian flanks in the Maloyaroslavets area but were halted by strong resistance.

"On the central front," the radio said, "the Soviet army is holding back the enemy and preventing him from moving on the capital.

"In the past day and night, the Germans in spite of their losses have increased their pressure — which has complicated the defense of Moscow."

Pravda, official Moscow newspaper, declared German losses on the eastern front now are approaching 4,000,000 killed and wounded, but "still these accursed locusts come on," according to a Moscow radio broadcast.

The radio added that the Germans resumed their attacks on a number of sectors in the Orel district, 200 miles south of Moscow, but the Russians "successfully counterattacked."

Generally, the Russians presented a picture of heavy fighting but successful defense.

Sources in London said the Germans apparently were failing to maintain the pace of their earlier gains but that there was "no evidence that the weight of the assault is slowing up."

Weather along most of the battlefront "continues unfavorable

Mayor Plugs for an Army Camp Near City But It All Turns Out to Be a Rumor

Can't Recall What Congressman Told Him In Telegram, But News-Journal Learns From McGregor That Area Wasn't Considered As Site For Project at Any Time.

Mayor W. J. Locke announced today that he had received a telegram from Congressman J. Harry McGregor, in a reply to a request he had sent the congressman, urging him to help bring what the mayor said was a proposed army camp to Richland county or vicinity.

But the mayor said he didn't have the telegram on hand, and he couldn't recall the contents, although he had read it.

He had sent the inquiry to McGregor, he said, at the instigation of AFL building trades leaders here.

But any visions of this section of the country swarming with soldiers are a little premature.

Congressman McGregor told the News-Journal in a telephone conversation today that:

The mayor's letter to him urged that he back the proposed construction of a tank training camp near Brinkhaven.

No one in Washington—at least no one he could find—knew anything about such a thing.

That he personally wasn't in favor of such an undertaking, since the construction of barracks and other housing, although it brought slight relief to vicinity carpenters also brought an influx of out-of-town workers, a lot of cheap housing which later degenerated into a ghost town, chaos to the local tax duplicates and the hundreds of other problems

NAZI GENERAL ASSASSINATED IN FRENCH CITY

Assailants Fire on Officer In Occupied Zone; Greeks Report Big Massacre.

(By Associated Press)

VICHY, Unoccupied France—German General Holtz, commanding the Nantes region in German-occupied France, was shot and killed today.

The announcement said the general was fired on by two assailants and that both escaped.

The shooting occurred early today in the Place St. Pierre, Nantes's principal square, as Holtz was en route to his headquarters.

Two men fired a series of shots at him and escaped in the resulting confusion. Both French and German authorities immediately began an active search for them.

Holtz was one of the principal officials of the German occupational forces in France.

Say 15,000 Slain

LONDON—(AP)—The Greek government in exile said today 15,000 Greeks had died in "a series of brutal massacres" by Bulgars in the Kavella district and province of Drama, Greece.

The government said it had received the information in a cable "from official sources."

The Greeks, although virtually unarmed, killed 330 Bulgars and seven Germans, the cable dated Sunday, said.

The Kavalla district and Drama province are in that part of Macedonia occupied by Bulgaria after the Axis invasion of Greece.

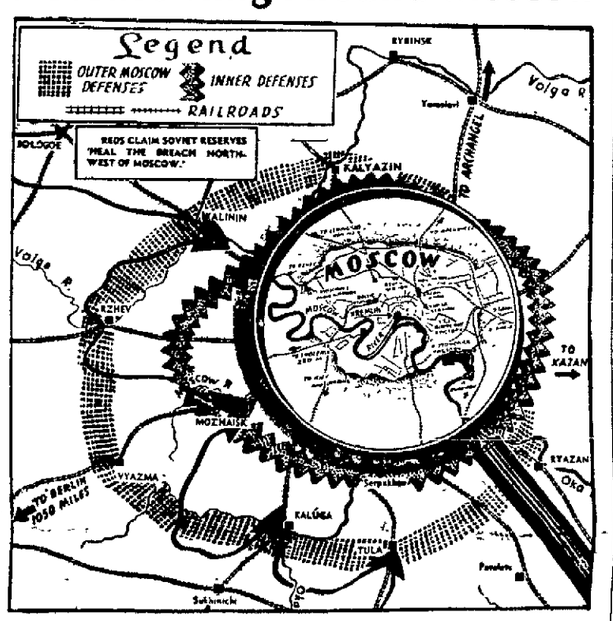
Defense Ring Around Moscow



Before the German army can take Moscow, it must crack a strongly fortified ring of defenses around the Soviet capital. The above map shows how the city has been protected against assault from all sides. Moscow is reported a veritable armed fort, with the government already moved to Kazan, 400 miles to the east.

JAPAN CRISIS SEEN BY TOJO

Premier General Calls For Iron Unity To Fight Against 'Encirclement.'

(By Associated Press)

TOKYO—Declaring Japan now stands at a crossroads in her national history, Premier General Eiki Tojo called today for "iron unity among all the fighting arms and the people to cope with the encirclement of Japan by foreign powers."

Tojo's appeal was issued in an order of the day directed to the war office in his dual role of premier and war minister.

He told war office officials in an address that they must be prepared to sacrifice everything in order to surmount the "crucial hour" which he said is facing Japan.

Tojo declared it was his "firm determination" to "ensure peace and order" and cited as evidence of this purpose the fact that he was his own home minister as well as premier and war minister. (Since the home minister controls the civilian police this reference apparently was to domestic conditions.)

Asked by Japanese reporters to elaborate on this, the premier said he did not want to talk because "there has been too much talk already."

Shigenori Togo, new foreign minister, supported his chief with a statement to the nation that "the ultimate goal of Japan's foreign policy lies in the

'Candidacies' Of Bromfield, Brunner Provide Reunion Fun

Author Louis Bromfield and Henry G. Brunner, both mentioned frequently as possible Democratic candidates for governor next year, engaged in some friendly "Alphonse-Gaston" banter over their "candidacies" to provide humor for former employes of the Mansfield Shield at their second annual reunion Sunday at Bromfield's Malabar farm.

Jesting about the reported booms in their behalf, Bromfield and Brunner pretended to give each other the honor of running for governor.

"We're spending most of our 'campaign' time courteously deferring to each other," Bromfield explained.

Brunner, who owned the Shield, a morning Mansfield newspaper which suspended in 1919, and several of his former employes recalled some of their pleasanter experiences in publishing the paper nearly a quarter century ago. About 40 persons attended the reunion.

NAVY'S NEWEST

Powerful Aircraft Carrier, Hornet, Commissioned.

HAMPTON ROADS, Va.—(INS)—The U. S. S. Hornet, seventh aircraft carrier in the American fleet today joins the rapidly-expanding two-ocean navy defending the American continent in colorful ceremonies at the U. S. naval operating base at Hampton Roads.

Commissioning ceremonies will be attended by Secretary and Mrs. Frank Knox, Assistant Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Ralph A. Bard, and a group of invited visitors, including Mrs. Rawleigh Warner, Mrs. Donald Boynton and Dr. Carl A. Davis, all of Chicago.

The new aircraft carrier is considered the most modern and powerful ship of its type in the world. It has a speed of 30 knots, length 760 feet, beam of 83.1 feet and displaces 20,000 tons.

SHOOTS FATHER

Zanesville Man Admits Killing After Argument Over Shirt.

ZANESVILLE —(INS)— Prosecutor Donald Kincaid said today that a first degree murder charge would be filed against Ralph Kennison, 37, who allegedly admitted to police that he killed his father, Edgar Leroy Kennison, 65, with a shotgun in their home yesterday.

Thelma Kennison told police the shooting climaxed an argument over a shirt the father was wearing.

WIFE CHAINED

Husband Charged With Intent To Kill Girl 19.

VANDALIA, Ill. —(INS)— Neal Cahoon, 62-year-old farmer, today was jailed on charges of intent to kill his wife, Rosie, 19, after she was found chained to a bed in their home.

"He always chained me because he was afraid I would run away," the girl, mother of a two-months-old baby, told authorities. Sheriff C. F. Cheshier said he was forced to open three doors secured by chains and padlocks to gain entrance to the house.

He found Mrs. Cahoon chained to a bed, with her baby lying beside her, he said. A log chain had been wrapped around the young woman's neck and attached to the bed with a padlock.

Gives Advice On Marriage During 'Repeat Wedding'

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Five precepts for marital success were the Rev. Walter K. Klein's advice to 68 couples who renewed their vows to "love, honor, cherish and sustain in joy and in sorrow" at the altar of the West Side Evangelical church.

A few days ago the minister, who performed the marriage ceremony for 500 couples in the last five years, sent invitations to as many as he could find addresses for in the church records. He asked them to attend services yesterday and repeat the ceremony."

The 68 couples heard him give the following advice in a discussion of "marriage for better or for worse."

1. Live within your income.
2. Avoid unkind arguments.
3. Never indulge in nagging.
4. Continue courtship throughout married life.
5. Keep the home Christian.

Then the services were climaxed as the husbands and wives marched to the altar, faced each other and repeated their marriage vows.

DIE IN RACES

Two Motorcycle Racers Killed, 4 Others Injured In Pile-Up.

OAKLAND, Cal. — (INS) — Two motorcycle racing champions were dead today, and four other racers were injured in a six cycle pile-up during the 200-mile national championship race at the Oakland speedway.

Killed were Tommy Hayes, 27, of Dallas, Tex., Texas state champion, and June McCall, jr., 23, of Charlotte, N. C., holder of several championships in the southeast.

CONSIDER AID

FDR, Harriman To Talk Help For Russians Today.

HYDE PARK, N. Y. —(AP)— A conference on help for Russia was scheduled by President Roosevelt today with W. Averell Harriman, head of his mission to Moscow, and Harry L. Hopkins, his supervisor of lease-lend operations.

Originally the chief executive had planned to confer with Harriman after he returned to Washington tomorrow. Hopkins, however, spent Saturday night at Harriman's home at Arden, N. Y., and then returned to Hyde Park, where he was a week-end guest of the president.

There was no denial in White House quarters that the preliminary, second-hand report which Harriman submitted to Mr. Roosevelt through Hopkins was of sufficient importance to warrant the arrangements for today's parley.

SOLDIER KILLED

Ohioan Dies In Fall From Crack Chicago-Toledo Train.

COLUMBUS — (INS) — Private George C Reeser, 34, of Circleville, who had been stationed at Ft. Hayes, Columbus, was killed when he apparently fell from a Toledo-to-Chicago train near Goshen, Ind., officials at Ft. Hayes announced today.

Information available indicated that Reeser accidentally fell from a door of the crack Prairie State limited Saturday night. A widow and three children survive.

POSE AS COPS

Bandits Wear Uniforms, Take $12,000 From Banker.

BLUFFTON, Ind.—(U.P.)—Three men dressed as police officers today robbed Gideon Gerber, 68, president of the Bluffton Farmers and Merchants bank, of $12,000 in cash.

Gerber told police the bandits slugged him with a gun butt and bound him with wire after their black sedan, with siren howling, forced his automobile off the road near Fort Wayne airport. He had picked up the money at a Fort Wayne bank for delivery to his own bank, he said.

The bandits drove Gerber's car a mile from the scene of the holdup and left him bound in the rear seat, he reported. He worked fre eand called police from a farmhouse.

City Bus Driver Faces Charge of Speedy Driving

A Mansfield bus driver was arrested this morning by Mansfield police on a charge of speeding when a motorcycle patrolman claimed he had clocked him at a speed of 43 miles an hour on West Fourth street.

Frank L. Newville, 81 East Second street, who is employed by the Mansfield Rapid Transit company, was arrested by Patrolman Clare Kyler after depositing passengers at Main street at 8:30 a. m. today.

Kyler said that he had warned Newville about speeding a month ago on Park avenue west. Newville, on both occasions, according to the patrolman, said that the speedometer on his bus was not functioning properly.

Newville is scheduled to be arraigned before Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch in Municipal court Wednesday at 1:30 p. m.

West Fourth street is a 35-milk-an-hour zone, Kyler pointed out. Members of the city traffic squad has been gradually tightening enforcement of traffic regulations.

Vern L. Williams, 386 Marshall avenue, was arrested yesterday on Orange street by Mansfield police on the charge of operating a vehicle without a muffler. He will also be arraigned Wednesday.

'Grid Crazy' Mansfield Ready to Send 4,000 Fans to Massillon Game Friday

1,500 More Tickets Sent To Care For Big Crowd of Tyger Followers.

Mansfield is preparing today for the biggest mass exodus of its population in the city's history.

Nearly 4,000 football fans are planning to make the trip to Massillon Friday night to see Mansfield's high school Tygers play Massillon's Tigers in a game that may decide the Ohio high school football championship for 1941.

An original allotment of 2,000 tickets for Mansfield was sold out Saturday, and the town was full of worried fans frantically trying to buy tickets when no more were available.

Those worried fans had good news today. An additional allotment of 1,500 tickets was received here this morning and placed on sale at the high school, Tawse's pharmacy, Central drug store, Brown's drug store, Mansfield Athletic Supply, Yuncker Sporst, and the Pennsylvania railroad station.

The tickets were for seats in the vicinity of the 30-yard line, and were part of a final batch of 5,000 tickets still unsold for the game which is expected to draw a crowd of 30,000.

Both Mansfield and Massillon high schools are undefeated in their first five games, with Mansfield piling up 183 points to nothing for the opposition, and Massillon scoring 119 to 12 for their opponents.

The mythical state championship isn't the only prize riding on the outcome of this game. A national record for consecutive games without defeat is at stake. Right now Mansfield and Massillon hold a tie for that record with 38 games, Mansfield's record having been completed in 1933, while Massillon tied the mark by defeating Steubenville Friday night. The previous record of 35 games without defeat was set by Ashland, Ky., in 1932.

The game is easily the standout attraction in Ohio high school football this week.

Train Kills Willard Youth As 25 Die In Ohio Mishaps

A Willard youth was crushed to death beneath a freight train and at least four other persons were reported injured in traffic accidents in the Mansfield area over the week-end as the Ohio accident toll mounted to 25. All but five of the victims died in traffic mishaps.

L. L. Shisler, Brinkhaven, escaped injury or death shortly before 1 a. m. today when a Pennsylvania passenger train demolished his car at the Leiter crossing west of Lucas. Shisler told deputy sheriffs he leaped from the car which had dropped off the end of a crossing and become lodged between the rails. The car caught fire after it was struck by the train.

The body of a youth identified as Ollie Back, 22, Willard, was found along the B. and O. tracks at the north edge of Willard Sunday morning. Authorities said the youth apparently slipped and fell beneath the train as he attempted to board it. Both legs were severed and most of the clothing was torn from Back's body.

The body was found by Frank Gallo who lives near the tracks. Officers said Back may have been caught by a leather belt he was wearing and dragged at least 100 yards by the train.

Chester Back, Willard, the youth's uncle, identified the body at the Fink funeral home. The uncle told authorities his nephew had left his wife and three children in Kentucky, to go to Willard to look for work. It was under-

CAPITAL JOLTED BY CASUALTIES IN SHIP ATTACK

Learns 11 Missing Thought Dead; 10 Others Injured, Navy Reports.

pered the capital's reaction to the incident. Last night, however, the navy received further information—the wounded Kearny had made her way to an undisclosed port and reported her 21 casualties.

It was the first time since Japanese warplanes bombed and machine gunned the U. S. gunboat Panay on the Yangtze river in China that a unit of the navy has had losses due to belligerent action. The toll in the Panay bombing in December 1937, was 2 dead and 43 injured.

The navy's announcement last night was almost as meager as the original communique on the torpedoing. It volunteered no details on why the 11 men were considered "missing," or on the nature of the injuries of the other 10. The only amplification was that one man was critically injured, one seriously injured, and eight had minor injuries.

One possibility suggested by men familiar with the destroyer's construction was that some of the missing men might have been trapped in a flooded engine room compartment, with a bare chance for survival.

The compartments may be entered only from the top deck. In event of emergency, such as a torpedo explosion, damaged compartments are quickly sealed by machinery from the rest of the ship.

Men might keep their heads above water, under favorable circumstances, were the compartment not completely flooded. Although efforts presumably would be made to open a flooded compartment as soon as practicable, a delay was seen as possible.

Awaiting more complete details, officials refused to comment but naval opinion inclined to the belief that the missing men were swept overboard.

The character of the encounter between the Kearny and the submarine, however, led informed quarters here to write off the missing as dead. It was their belief that the men either had been blown out of the ship when the torpedo exploded, or else that they were trapped when watertight bulkheads were closed after the ship had been hit.

Since four of the missing were firemen and three watermen, the belief was that one of the Kearny's engine rooms had been hit.

The navy offered no explanation why more than two days had elapsed between the announcement of the torpedoing and the disclosure of casualties.

One explanation was that the Kearny flashed only the briefest of reports after she was hit 350 miles southwest of Iceland while on patrol duty early Friday and then resumed radio silence, so as not to advertise her position to other raiders as she limped her wounded way to port.

Nazis Say Former U. S. Destroyer Sunk

BERLIN — (U.P.) — Official press statements reported today that one of two British destroyers sunk last week by German submarines apparently was a former American warship but charged that the torpedoing of the U. S. S. Kearny was "staged" by President Roosevelt in an attempt to force conflict with Germany.

The official news agency, describing the submarine attack that was credited with sinking ten merchantmen and two destroyers en route to Britain, said that the second destroyer "apparently was of the so-called Churchill class, former American ships sold to Britain."

Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbel's newspaper, Der Angriff, asserted that "the Kearny incident was staged by Roosevelt himself and congress reacted in the desired manner. Roosevelt needed that torpedo shot damned badly."

"The official (American) announcement was a stinging lie from the first to the last sylable," said the Voelkischer Beobachter, Adolf Hitler's newspaper.

Demands U. S. Ships Avenge Torpedoing

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — Chairman Tom Connally, D. Tex., of the senate foreign relations committee today demanded that American sailors and ships "shoot and shoot to kill" to avenge the murderous and foul crime" against the U. S. destroyer Kearny.

He predicted that the navy's announcement of 11 men missing and 10 others injured, two of them seriously, by the torpedo attack upon the Kearny by a submarine, "undoubtedly German," would quicken senate action on the pending armed ship bill.

Connally's committee met today for what had been planned as a routine meeting to plan hearings on the house-approved bill to repeal the neutrality act's restriction against armed merchant vessels. But the Kearny incident and challenges over the week-end of extremists in foreign policy to force the senate to vote on a declaration of war against Germany promised to make it an eventful meeting.

Navy Reveals Kearny Casualty List

Missing—Floyd Andrew Camp, ship's cook, first class; National City, Calif. Lloyd Dalton Lafleur, pharmacist's mate, second class, Beaumont, Tex. Luther Asle Curtis, water tender, first class, Troy, N. Y. Louis Dobnikar, water tender, second class; Cleveland. Iral William Stoltz, fireman, first class, Spangler, Pa. Sidney Gerald Larriviere, fireman, first class; Lafayette, La. George Alexander Calvert, fireman, first class; Gillespie, Ill. Russell Burdick Wade, fireman, first class, Houston, Ala. Harry Tull Young, machinist's mate, second class; Reader, Ark. Dwight Floyd Pyle, seaman, second class; Bainbridge, Ga.

Minor injuries — Eight men whose names the navy did not reveal.

Wreckage Of Lucas Train-Auto Crash

Here's the mass of steel that was an automobile before it was struck by a Pennsylvania passenger train early today at a grade crossing on a rural road near Lucas. L. L. Shisler, Brinkhaven, the owner, leaped to safety before the crash. He said the wheels became wedged between the rails. The car burned after the train struck it. The wreckage was brought to a Mansfield garage.

MAYOR PLUGS FOR ARMY CAMP

But It All Turns Out To Be a Rumor; Congressman Says It Wasn't Considered.

which assail army camp towns.

McGregor said that if the consensus of opinion here was that such a camp would be desired, however, that he would be willing to support any plan for one.

The congressman said that the mayor's letter was probably the upshot of a rumor growing from reports that area corps officials had been instructed to look about for any unused housing to be pushed over for tank-training.

Col. Floyd Odlum, and other CPM officials told McGregor that no such camp had ever been contemplated in this area and that tank-training was to be conducted at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind.

In his telegram to Locke, McGregor also called attention to the defense contract distribution meeting to be held at the Neil House in Columbus late tomorrow. Congressman Baumhart of Erie county will address the meeting. The OPM, according to McGregor plans to set up a local contract distribution office at 50 East Broad street, Columbus.

Although his organization had directly requested the mayor to query congressmen regarding the establishment of a camp in this vicinity with the view of providing employment for local trades employes, David H. Creps, business agent of the Mansfield Building Trades council, said that Mayor Locke had not informed him of the answer the mayor received from the congressman.

Army camps have been constructed at Ravenna and Plum Brook and have brought with them many major civic problems. An influx of out-of-town workers removed any advantage which might have been given local building trades employes, the housing condition has become critical, local sewage and wate rsystems have been strained with such a sudden increase in population and the presence of so many defense workers has added to both communities' police and traffic problems.

In both cities, the new housing built to accommodate the out-of-town workers has been semi-permanent. Officials of the towns fear that following the emergency, the cheap homes and a "watered" tax duplicate will complicate matters. Merchants in the defense areas have already suffered from an excessive amount of "bad debts."

WINDSOR SLEEPY AS HE ARRIVES

But Duchess Looks Wide-Awake As Couple Reaches New York.

NEW YORK—(INS)—A sleepy-eyed Duke of Windsor accompanied by his bright, sparkling and wide-awake duchess, arrived in New York City today for his first visit in 17 years.

In sharp contrast to his 1924 arrival when as the Prince of Wales, he was accorded a turbulent and idolatrous welcome the duke was driven to his midtown Manhatian hotel through the early morning deserted streets.

The couple will remain in New York about a week, during which time the duke plans visits to several British war relief agencies.

"We heard the band coming down the street to the office and rushed Brunner out to the sidewalk where a crowd had gathered. Van Cook (Atty. Van C. Cook, Mansfield) hoisted Brunner to his shoulders. The music stopped. Onlookers cheered. And Brunner was so overcome he couldn't say a single word."

"I have an especially fond recollection of the Shield, because the present Mrs. Leonard was the paper's society editor," Leonard said.

Mrs. Leonard hastily explained that she was more than just the society editor.

When Mr. Leonard telephoned me to come to work the first day on the society desk I didn't know a thing about writing social news," she said; "but it didn't matter a great deal because before long I was writing obituaries and every other sort of story."

Earl Pollock, Mansfield, who with Mrs. Pollock and Atty. and Mrs. George Biddle, was in charge of arrangements for the reunion told of his experiences as city editor of the Shield.

Among other persons introduced were Harry Smith, Columbus, state liquor department employe, who with Mrs. Smith was a guest of Leonard at the reunion; Mrs. Winifred Castor, and Mrs. Emma Fisher, Mansfield, both former Shield employes.

Other former employes of the paper who told of their experiences included Howard B. Almy, 129 Rae avenue, who was composing room foreman, and Atty. Howard Gongwer, Mansfield, who was a reporter.

AGED CRAWFORD RESIDENT DIES

Long Illness Ends In Death of Mrs. Minnie Melick Near Tiro.

SHELBY—Mrs. Minnie Melick, 63, lifelong resident of Crawford county, died Sunday at the family home, two miles north of Tiro, following a lingering illness.

She was born Dec. 22, 1877 in Auburn township where she had lived her entire life near Tiro. She was a member of United Brethren church and Edgewood grange of Tiro.

Survivors include two sons, Willis and Charles at home; two daughters, Mrs George Cole of Vernon township and Mrs. Herbert Artz of Auburn township; two half-brothers, James and William Morrow of Shelby; also six grandchildren.

Funeral rites will be held at 2 p. m. Tuesday from the United Brethren church in Tiro with the pastor, Rev. Victor Roebuck, officiating. Burial will be made in the Greenlawn cemetery at Plymouth.

WILL FIGHT ACT ON MARKETING

Cheesemakers Organize To Oppose Milk Marketing Rules.

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Swiss cheesemakers in Holmes, Tuscarawas, Coshocton and Wayne counties were reported today to have organized to fight Ohio's new milk marketing act.

They contend, said a spokesman for the newly created Swiss Cheesemakers of Ohio, that the act will handicap operations and impose an undue burden on the industry.

Under the law, which went into effect Aug. 15, milk dealers, cream stations, weighers, samplers and testers must obtain licenses from the department of agriculture, records must be opened for inspection dealers must give the state information of their business, and they must guarantee financial responsibility for payment of milk and cream.

PIQUA—(INS)—When a loaded shotgun which her husband had just cleaned, fell from the davenport and discharged, Mrs. Alberta Little, 22, was wounded fatally.

ADMITS SLAYING

Youth, 16, Confesses Torture Killing of Girl.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. — (U.P.) — Raymond L. Woodward, jr., 16, unexpectedly pleaded guilty to first-degree murder charges today in connection with the torture slaying of 15-year-old Constance Shipp in a Baptist parsonage last July.

The death penalty is mandatory for fist-degree murder in Massachusetts, and thus only gubernatorial intervention can save the "problem child" from the electric chair.

Defense Counsel Joseph P. Donahue announced that he would appeal for such executive clemency when sentence is imposed by Superior Judge Harold P. Williams sometime within the next seven days.

GET $400 LOOT

COLUMBUS—(INS)—Two young masked bandits held up the owner and clerk of the McKinley pharmacy and escaped with the day's receipts, estimated by police at $400.

WILL INSPECT TROOPS

COLUMBUS—(INS)—Governor Bricker and Adj. Gen. Whittier S. Bird are en route to Camp Shelby, Miss., where they will spend three days inspecting the 37th (Ohio) Division.

POCKET PICKED

COLUMBUS—(INS)—A pickpocket succeeded in getting his billfold, containing $425, as he sat in a grill, Joe Gatterdam reported to police.

for active operations," these informants asserted.

Information reaching London, meanwhile, indicated that the Russian removal of troops from Odessa had been carried out methodically for eight days and was regarded as a successful evacuation.

To reinforce the embattled Red armies, admittedly under mounting pressure, Moscow's population was being recruited rapidly under a huge civilian army, and large numbers of Siberian and Mongolian troops were declared by the Soviet radio to be rushing westward to meet the German onslaught.

Berlin Reports Southern Advances

BERLIN—(AP)—Axis armies are sweeping eastward anew toward the Russian war industry centers of the Donets basin and stand within 30 miles of Rostov, gateway to the oil-rich Caucasus, the German high command declared today.

On the Moscow front, Red army counterattacks were said to have been beaten back after German troops stabbed new wedges into the Soviet defense system and wiped out two more Red army groups in bitter fighting.

"In the southern part of the eastern front," the high command said, "German, Italian, Hungarian and Slovak divisions are irresistibly advancing toward the industrial area of the Donets. Also on the remaining sectors of the front operations are continuing successfully."

German bombers heavily attacked Russian rail lines and communications systems along the entire battlefront, the war bulletin said.

DNB, which announced the new German successes on the Central front, said the Russians were trying desperately to pinch off the iron wedges driven into their lines but had failed to do so.

Report Russia Will Need U. S. Wheat

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Russia may have to turn to the United States for food supplies, particularly wheat, as a result of the loss of rich grain-producing areas of the Ukraine, agriculture department officials said today.

It was suggested that importation of grain from this country into Vladivostok would release a considerable quantity of Siberian grain for shipment westward into that portion of European Russia not occupied by Hitler's forces.

There was no indication that the Russian government has approached the United States for food supplies, but officials said the war had raised serious obstacles for the Soviet government in the task of supplying its army and civilians.

KILLED IN FALL

CINCINNATI—(INS)—John Henderson, 53-year-old conductor for the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, was killed when he fell from the top of a freight car.

Asks For Unity

General Eiki Tojo, new premier of Japan, today called for "iron unity among all the fighting arms and people to cope with the encirclement of Japan by foreign powers." He made his appeal in an order of the day directed to the war office.

maintenance and promotion of world peace, but we are firmly determined to defend our country whenever circumstances arise that menace the existence or sully the honor of the Japanese empire."

He declared that Japan "will surely be able to overcome the difficulties now confronting her and thus make way for the boundless destiny of the nation."

The premier, who returned to Tokyo by plane overnight after a pilgrimage to the Temple of the Sun Goddess at Ise, immediately plunged into the task of revamping the Japanese civil and military administrations to bring them under strict, unified control.

One of his first moves as home minister—a post he assumed along with the premiership and war ministry—was an unexpected and sweeping shakeup of the department's police bureau heads.

By "encirclement of Japan" the Japanese understood their new prime minister to refer to the military and economic measures taken recently by the United States, Britain, China and the Dutch East Indies and Russia's part in the war against the Axis.

The press generally insisted that the new government was not a bellicose one although it was expected to deal firmly with the empire's foreign problems.

Discussing relations witht he United States, the influential newspaper Asahi said the new foreign minister, Shigenori Togo, would continue his predecessor's efforts to deal with the "cancer of the Pacific"—a favorite current phrase for Japanese-American friction as an important problem of the day, "in a spirit of justice and fortitude."

THERE GOES A TIRE!
... but why junk the car?

Any car can have a blowout in a tire. But you wouldn't junk the car. You'd just fix the tire—or replace it.

That's very much like a situation that exists in the retailing of beer. Beer retailing has its "flat tires," too—retailers who disobey the law or who permit unsavory conditions.

To protect your right to drink good beer, we of the beer industry want to eliminate the few "flat tire" retailers. Here's another reason: Right here in Ohio, beer has provided employment for 50,196 persons, supports an annual payroll of $46,441,543 and paid $10,717,714 in state taxes last year.

The state, too, has an important stake in the beer industry's purchases—for material, equipment and services—from more than 100 other industries.

Those benefits are worth preserving. You can help us preserve them by patronizing only the reputable and legal places where beer is sold and by reporting any law violations you may observe to the duly constituted authorities.

Clean House— and Help Your Club!

HERE'S HOW YOU CAN HELP YOUR CLUB RAISE MONEY!

A credit slip will be given for each bunch of 12 or more hangers turned over to Swan Cleaners by any club member. These do not need to be Swan's hangers—any wire hanger in good condition is acceptable. 12 or more hangers should be tied in bunches of 1 dozen each.

These credit slips may be "cashed" once a month by the designated representative of the club (individuals turn credit slips over to this representative).

A cleaning or pressing order is not necessary to get credit—credit slips for hangers will be given at the store at any time to persons who bring in hangers. However, hangers will be picked up by Swan Cleaners in connection with pickup of cleaning or pressing at the same time.

CHURCH GROUP STAGES FAIR AT BUCYRUS

Crawford County Methodists To Hold Annual Event Tuesday Night.

BUCYRUS—Young people from 11 Crawford county Methodist churches will take part in the annual Booth Festival in Epworth Methodist church Tuesday night.

Between 150 and 200 youths are expected to attend the program and compete for the prize, a gold engraved plaque, which will go into the possession of the winning organization for one year.

The winner will be selected on the basis of members present and the attractiveness of the booth and amount of material displayed.

Food to be displayed was contributed at the annual Harvest Home services in the respective churches Sunday.

NEWSPAPERARCHIVE®

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, MONDAY, OCTOBER 20, 1941.

"Truth is mighty and will prevail"—but it has a hard time catching up with rumors.

Director Odlum says the subcontracting plan started six months too late—but, considering the defense program in general, that seems quite early.

There is talk of a new agency, with 3,000 employes, to collect the federal use tax of $5 a year on automobiles—which is strangely remindful of New Deal economy.

Looking Toward Air Supremacy

THE airplane ai[illegible] just getting started, says William B. Stout, one of the leaders of the industry. The war provides the big push. He tells a society of engineers:

"If we can keep going for two years, we will build better planes than any they have over there, and we will build them ten times as fast.

"This industry will not stop. It will only be getting started. It's going to be the greatest industry the world has ever seen. Within two years it will be greater than the automobile industry at its height, and it will reshuffle the surface of the world."

Nearly all freight and passenger traffic, he believes, will then go by air. Freight planes are now being built that will carry 23,000 pounds of freight at more than 200 miles an hour and at less cost than high-speed railroad freight.

"What's coming is not peanuts," Mr. Stout asserts. "It's air supremacy, and no matter what we pay for it, it will be worth it."

And, considering progress already made, it isn't wise to say: "Impossible!"

Meanwhile, what's being done at the Mansfield airport to get ready for the greater needs of next year and thereafter?

Business for Those Who Invite It

ABILITY to adapt themselves to changing conditions is one of the readily recognized traits of successful men, who are sometimes referred to as "lucky."

The kind of people who are inclined to "give up" easily are finding many excuses just now for lying down on the job, but others—the adaptable sort—are seeing new and greater opportunities.

A large automobile company, for instance, points out to its sales force:

"The biggest thing that we have to lose in 1942 is not loss of volume or reduction in profits. The biggest thing that we stand a chance of losing is the ability and willingness to go after business and maintain the same organization spirit, morale and initiative that have earned for dealers their prestige within the industry and their goodwill position with the automobile buying public."

While this is intended to apply nationally it is particularly applicable to the Mansfield area—and not only as to automobiles but to all lines of merchandising and service.

Whatever adaptation there may be to constantly changing conditions, the fact remains that a high percentage of employment will continue indefinitely and that ability of a large majority to buy necessities and some luxuries will be greater than for a number of years.

And, as always, the newspaper of a community reflects the spirit of that community to its own people and to the outside world. Day after day, as you read the advertising messages of Mansfield merchants, and of dealers in various commodities and services, you get an idea of reasons why this city has made such consistent and substantial progress.

News-Journal advertising will serve as a dependable guide to the Mansfield stores that invite your patronage and have ample stocks of dependable merchandise awaiting your selection.

An Unappreciated 'Reformer'

FEW PEOPLE are less appreciated than those who are dubbed "professional reformers" and who are constantly engaged in some sort of crusade against common human habits or frailties.

Such a character was Dr. Charles Giffin Pease, who recently passed away in New York after having devoted three-quarters of a century trying to persuade other people to quit using alcohol, tobacco, tea, coffee, vinegar, soft drinks, meat, lollypops, etc.

It appears that the reformer complex appeared when Dr. Pease was a small boy and rapidly developed to an obsession stage—which is not unusual, except in the extent to which he carried it.

Exemplary personal conduct is commendable, and efforts to influence others, through precept and example, is recognized by many people as a duty or religious obligation.

But it is one of the great privileges of a free people to make their own decisions, within the law—and also to make their own mistakes.

Despite his zealous crusading it is quite likely that Dr. Pease will be accorded no high place in history. More good examples, and less telling other people what they should or should not do, is likely to have greater effect than the rantings of a self-appointed reformer who gains the designation of "nut."

Students Recognize National Danger

A FAVORITE assertion of professional pacifists is that the young people who must fight a war are driven to it against their wills by the old who need not fight. That view fails to credit the young people with ability to understand principles and make decisions on current issues. For a few years the pacifists seemed to be right. Widespread cynicism existed in college circles, and was highly vocal.

Today, Time magazine reports, the college dailies and weeklies reveal a different attitude among undergraduates. In east and west, north and south, these publications express strong interventionist views and urge repeal of the Neutrality Act. They are saying that the time for "valid debate" is over. They call it cynicism to hold that "America is not mentally mature enough to make entry into the war worth the cost."

President Roosevelt says: "We shall do everything in our power to crush Hitler and his Nazi forces"—but if that doesn't work it will be too late to "try something else."

Youthful inheritors of wealth can usually be depended upon to redistribute it—generally to their own detriment.

Obstacles to Labor Unity Plan

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON — One of the weirdest labor tangles which has arisen in the government's defense troubles, and incidentally involving Leon Henderson's efforts to keep prices from skyrocketing, is that of a small housing job in Wayne, Michigan.

The point is that the government seems determined to reject the bid of the low bidder, and for the sole and only reason that this bidder's labor is in a C. I. O. union. Now this seems terrible, and it requires no imagination to speak of to visualize the screams from C. I. O. leaders.

BUT—there is another side to it, and there is so much argument on this other side that many big figures in the government, figures that are friendly to labor, are convinced by it.

To understand this other side it is necessary to go into the larger labor situation with respect to prices, wages and the danger of inflation. We start off with the argument of Bernard M. Baruch, which nearly everybody accepts privately, but politically is murder. That is that there can be no avoidance of inflation unless wages and farm prices are held down as well as other costs.

Mr. Henderson, on whose shoulders has been put the job of preventing inflation by holding prices down, has told congress and the public that he is utterly opposed to writing wage and salary ceilings into law. He knows perfectly well, of course, that there must be some form of control over wages if inflation is to be avoided, and his solution is the adoption of Sidney Hillman's industry-wide labor stabilization agreements.

WHAT this means is that stabilization agreements would become nation-wide in each industry, and would require union membership throughout each particular industry. That is the quid pro quo which the labor unions would get out of what would amount to an agreement not to strike and to freeze wages for the duration of the emergency. "Until the war is over" is the simple way to state "emergency."

The one big obstacle to the stabilization agreements is the split in the labor movement. For one thing it means that there is no one organization competent to speak for labor. For another, no organization can afford to tie itself up in an agreement if the OTHER labor organization in its field thereby will be tempted to move in and win memberships by promising to get wage increases.

Mr. Hillman's solution to this problem is to enforce labor unity on an industry by the simple expedient of finding out which is the dominant or larger union in that industry, and then insisting that the government can deal ONLY with that labor union.

Naturally this policy will be fought to a standstill by the union NOT recognized as the dominant one in any particular industry. This is what happened about the Wayne contract. The C. I. O. union in the construction field is obviously not the dominant one. In fact Mr. Hillman regards it as a nuisance organization. So when the firm, having a contract with this C. I. O. union, made the low bid those in the government who believed in the Hillman plan managed to prevent the award.

THE thing is still on the fire as this is written. There is pulling and hauling in the government such as no one remembers, the fighting being between wings of the labor and radical groups, with the conservatives not liking either side; or its objectives.

Decision of this case will probably not be final. Both sides will go on fighting. As a matter of fact there has been no decision as yet from the White House, and that, as in every other problem involving national defense, is necessary before any principle is established.

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Thursday, Oct. 20, 1921.

Final citizenship papers were presented to 52 foreign-born residents in ceremony at common pleas court room.

Rev. Dr. Paul W. Koller was re-elected president of the Ohio synod of Lutheran churches.

Medical Care of Old People

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

I AM in receipt of a small pamphlet on the "Medical Problems of Old Age," part of the magnificent program which consisted in a review of all human knowledge presented at the two-hundredth anniversary of the founding of the University of Pennsylvania.

The medical care of old people is a subject that from a scientific standpoint has been greatly neglected. Of late, along with all the problems of old age that have been thrust upon us by our increasing aged population, it has received some recognition.

Professor Pepper of the department of medicine at the University of Pennsylvania, has been a leader in this work, and devotes several clinics a year to bring to the attention of medical students the intricacies of gerontology, as the science of old age is called.

Peculiarities of Aged.

There are many peculiarities of disease in the aged, some of them well-recognized, others not so well-known even to the otherwise accomplished physician.

The changes in the circulatory system, the obliteration of blood vessels in the body apparent in the skin in the form of patriarchal pallor, are the primary cause of most of the disabilities of age. In the brain these changes lead to forgetfulness, sleepiness, garrulity, "anecdotage," as it has been aptly called, and, more serious, many mental aberrations.

Peculiarities not so generally recognized are that old people are just the opposite of children in that they do not stand drugs well —particularly sedative drugs — and they do tolerate surgical operations very well. Certain childish diseases are very likely to attack the aged—whooping cough and appendicitis, for instance — and produce peculiar and distinct clinical pictures.

"Add More Life to the Years."

There is great need for more knowledge of the physiology of old age. We need to know how to improve the habits of old age. That the ones we have are not always the best habits was expressed by Lord Roseberry:

"It is a black moment when the heralds proclaim the passing of the dead, and the great officers break their staves. But it is sadder still when it is the victim's own voice that announces his decadence, when it is the victim's own hand that breaks the staff in public. I wonder if generations to come will understand the pity of it."

Our ideal must be, in the words of another Pennsylvania professor, Dr. George Morris Piersol, to "add more life to the years rather than more years to the life."

Lewis May Abandon Isolationism To Recapture Presidency of CIO

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Inner CIO circles are buzzing excitedly over a grapevine report that John L. Lewis is seriously considering ditching his isolationism and declaring for the Roosevelt policy of aid to Britain and Russia.

Hitch in the rumor is that it was "allowed to leak" by close Lewis henchmen, which may mean that there is more to it than meets the eye.

It might be a stratagem by Lewis to further his secret ambitions to recapture the CIO presidency. Or it might be a maneuver to avert a drubbing on the foreign issue at the CIO convention next month. Lewis's foes are quietly organizing for a showdown. Fearing a licking, he may be trying to lull them into dropping the plan.

Two things are definitely known:

1—That Lewis has issued orders to his satellites to pipe down on the foreign question. They are not to say anything or make any moves one way or the other. Previously they beat the isolationist drums in line with his lead.

2—Lewis had long talks with two British labor leaders who are visiting the United States.

Pal to Pal.

THEY were Will Lawther, president of the Mine Workers Federation, which corresponds to the United Mine Workers, Lewis's union, and Jack Jones, Welsh miner and novelist. These two were the first visiting British Laborites to confer with Lewis—a fact he pointedly called to their attention.

He told them he considered it a personal affront that Sir Walter Citrine, British Labor party leader, had not called on him when he was in the U. S. last spring. Citrine conferred with other CIO and AFL chiefs, but was advised not to see Lewis because John might interpret it as an effort to "propagandize" him.

(Insiders believe that one of the chief reasons behind Lewis's venomous hatred of Roosevelt is the fact that Lewis and his wife were never invited to dinner at the White House.)

Lewis was very cordial to both Britishers. He recited at length his grievances against the "British Empire," but sonorously declared that he was opposed to Fascism and did not favor a Nazi victory. He assured his visitors that he knew what that would mean to labor.

Lewis, of Welsh descent, was particularly friendly to Jones, to whom he said, "You and I can talk as one miner to another." Jones agreed with Lewis on the wrongdoings of the British Empire, but said that labor was making great social and economic changes in England and that after the war, conditions would be far different.

It was to Jones that Lewis gave the impression that he might declare for the "aid Britain and Russia" policy.

Note: Lewis was so pleased with Jones that he took him to lunch at the fashionable Carlton hotel, where many headline government leaders dine at noon. As Lewis and his guest were walking through the lobby, Lewis spotted Justice Felix Frankfurter, with whom he had once been on cordial terms but about whom recently he had done a lot of critical muttering. But this time, Lewis boomed out heartily," Good morning, Mr. Justice. I want you to meet a friend of mine from England."

Old Stuff.

NOW that the navy's ban on news about damaged British warships in American ports has been lifted, it's no longer a secret that the H. M. S. Warspite, crippled in the Battle of Crete, is undergoing repairs at the Pudget Sound navy yard. But the Warspite's gallant skipper, Capt. Douglas Fisher, is still chuckling over an experience he had with a Seattle newsman shortly after docking.

"What's your ship, Captain?" asked the reporter.

"Number 126," replied Fisher with a grin. (This is the repair request number of the Warspite.) "I'm sorry, but under the circumstances that's all I can tell you."

"That's okay, Captain," said the newsman. "I only asked you that question for conversational purposes. Everybody out here knows you're the Warspite. I knew you were going to put in here days before you arrived. Tell me something about the Battle of Crete."

Note: While on a sight-seeing tour of the capital with his host, Representative Warren Magnuson of Washington, Fisher evinced a keen interest in the White House. "I didn't know the president lived where he works," he remarked.

INFORMED that defense officials want to use her famous legs to publicize non-silk stockings as soon as she has recovered from her fractured ankle, movie queen Marlene Dietrich sent back word that she stands ready, or will sit if preferred, for any patriotic purpose. . . . The trial of the Trotskyite leaders of the tough Minneapolis Teamsters Local 554, granted a charter several months ago by Denny Lewis, head of the CIO Construction Workers, will open today. The leftists will be tried on charges of "conspiring to overthrow the form of the U. S. government." One of the chief leaders, Grant Dunn, secretary of the union, suddenly committed suicide a week ago. He is the sixth of the union's chiefs to come to a violent end. . . . One subject that Speaker Sam Rayburn always is ready to talk about is his Texas ranch. "I like to be known as a rancher," he grins, "although I haven't got much to show for it." . . . Arkansas' bustling young Representative Clyde Ellis has chalked up another victory for his proposed great Arkansas Valley power project. After winning the president's backing for placing control of the project under an independent authority, similar to TVA, Ellis got Roosevelt's approval for immediate action on a bill. Senator Josh Lee, militant Oklahoma New Dealer, has joined forces with Ellis and will sponsor the legislation in the senate. . . . Undersecretary of Agriculture Paul Appleby is out of the running for the vacancy on the federal reserve board he was so anxious to get. Most likely appointee is AAA Administrator Rudolph Evans, the first choice of FRB head Marriner Eccles. . . . Real star of ten members of the Argentine chamber of deputies now visiting the U. S. is Raul Damonte Taborda, young crusader who exposed Nazi operations in his country in a sensational investigation.

Watching Trends

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — The capital's off-side comment:

Two rumors, neither of which government officials will verify publicly, indicate that Russia really is planning a long-time war: (1) That their first request for U. S. co-operation was to be allowed to put Soviet technicians in certain key defense industries to take back home detailed blueprints for development of war industries there. (2) That before there was any plea for arms, the Russians asked for tools and machinery to establish defense industries east of the Urals.

None of the major officials and few of the clerks and stenos in government defense agencies these days are getting the come-to-work signal without an all-clear from the FBI.

Biggest material contribution made to China, so far, is said to be what American highway and traffic technicians have accomplished in keeping trucks moving on the Burma road.

THE Bureau of Labor Statistics says the overall cost of living in Washington is up 3.4 per cent in the last three months and 7 per cent over a year ago. The Bureau points out, however, that it still is more than 12 per cent under the World war high and 35 per cent below the all-time top in 1920. The 1929 cost of living in Washington was about the same as at the end of the World war period.

One of the growing government headaches is trying to keep down STATE taxes on national defense industries.

Most thankless job in Washington today: that of Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau. He not only has to go out and beat the brush for defense dollar-raising plans but he has to collect them. The irony of it is that Mr. Morgenthau used to be considered a conservative when it came to high taxes.

BEING as full as it is of folks who are just stopping over for a year or so, Washington frequently is dishwater-weak in civic enterprise, but the capital heart really swelled the other night in a farewell for the ex-superintendent of police, Major Ernest W. Brown. The major had been in the police department for 45 years—and had been superintendent longer than any one else—but when his retirement date came up, the police department was under the kind of fire that would make the ordinary reform campaign in a voting metropolis look like a lightning bug at high noon. One of the district congressional committees had the heat on and where it appeared to be on mostly was Major Brown's neck. So the major's retirement, scheduled a long time ago by civil service, had all the earmarks of a retreat. Maybe that's just what made several hundred Washingtonians turn out to prove it wasn't and give the major one of the warmest farewell shindigs that have been seen around here in years.

THE latest torpedo fired in the economy drive that has been growing since congressmen came back from their "vacations" (which means seeing the voters) is that a group of congressional and departmental leaders will shoot at a two-billion-dollar slash in non-defense spending.

The real reason that the post office has short-cut its original plans for mail delivery to army camps is that so many boxes from home contained perishable eats, something had to be done to beat the boys and their parents to the squawk.

Observers here are saying that there have been more deaths in congress since this world crisis began to come to a head a couple of years ago than in any similar period in history. The Capitol physician is checking for us.

A Farmer's Diary

Sheltering Oak

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

ON SEVERAL occasions as I drove on a certain country road, I noticed a giant oak at the corner of a pasture, some distance to the south. The long branches spread downward until they almost trailed the ground. The huge pointed, sloping top was like a massive cone of soft green. Even from a space of 200 yards, it radiated strength and rare beauty of form. Each time I passed that way, the memory of that lovely picture stayed with me for many days. Unconsciously, I felt a strange companionship.

Today, as I drove by again, I saw it stand against a raging storm of rain. The tempestuous shower transformed the soft green shade to hoary, gesticulating, sinewy arms. I admired the power expended to hold it firmly and securely during the roaring, fickle tempest.

I stopped my car and watched the growing downpour . . . then when the rain slackened a little, I draped an old Indian blanket about my shoulders, crossed the worm fence beyond the ditch, and walked up to the place where the huge oak stood.

Before I went beneath the trailing branches I listened to the patter of rain on the leaves. Here were softer, more delicate overtones than any heard from a tiny rill.

In a small opening between two lengthy branches, I stopped and entered into the sheltered place. The grass beneath my feet showed less moisture than heavy dew. Farther in were only hints of dampness. Slowly I made my way, in the dusky twilight, until my eyes became accustomed to my surroundings.

Carefully, I dropped the blanket from around my shoulders. I did not need it here. Only at intervals did I hear the plop of heavy drops upon the rooty floor.

Standing there motionless, I presently heard slight movements at the farthest western side, then the light tread of tiny feet upon the leaves. Cautiously, I turned my head. Four shadowy creatures seemed to blend into the lights and shadows of the floor—then gradually I made out 16 half-grown quail, pecking and scratching in a way most businesslike. Some raised their pretty heads and pecked and preened their dampened feathers. How self-sufficient the little family seemed! Suddenly I heard a little cluck and these children of the wild obeyed, and ran like Spartans in the direction of the sound.

I, too, went away, wondering not at all that wild folk should seek shelter beneath that oak . . . feeling my own close kinship to all other primitive things . . . and somehow, satisfied.

TESTS REFUTE 'SIXTH SENSE' OF THE BLIND

Unusual Ability to Avoid Obstacles Credited To Hearing.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y.—(U.P.)—Dr. Karl M. Dallenbach, psychology professor at Cornell university, believes the so-called "sixth sense" which enables the blind to avoid obstacles in their paths is in reality the sense of hearing.

In an interview, aided by Michael Supa, a blind graduate student in psychology who serves as his assistant, Dr. Dallenbach said that in experiments conducted by them at Cornell it was found a blind person becomes aware of an object before he touches it.

"After an investigating involving more than 1,700 experiments," Dallenbach said, "we have come to the conclusion that what has been called the 'sixth sense,' 'telesthesia,' the 'warning sense,' the obstacle sense'—to mention but a few of the catch phrases—is in reality the sense of hearing.

On one occasion the Cornell psychologist experimented with four people—two totally blind and two possessing normal vision but serving blindfold. Previous to the experiment, the blind subjects asserted that they were able to distinguish the presence of obstacles. In fact, both of them maintained they used this ability every day as a matter of necessity. The sighted subjects, on the other hand, doubted at the outset that they would be able to note the presence of obstacles in their paths.

"In that experiment," Supa said, "we had to devise a measurement whereby we could determine the accuracy with which the subject preceived objects and whereby we could compare the performances from trial to trial, and from individual to individual. To establish such a measurement we had the subject walk toward a movable wall, the position of which was varied from trial to trial."

Each subject was instructed to walk toward the wall until he first preceived its presence, the assistant said. The distance between the place where the subject stopped and the wall was noted, and the subject was then told to move forward until he was as close to the wall as possible without coming in contact with it. The first distance divided by the second distance yielded the ratio which was used as a standard of measurement.

Such a ratio was a good measurement because at the outset the sighted subjects, fearful lest they run into the wall, would sometimes stop 20 feet from the object and then move up a foot or two. This would give an exceedingly low ratio when compared with the results of those who stopped first 9 feet, and then walked up to within 3 inches of the wall.

When the subjects were asked how they were able to preceive the wall, some said they were able to detect it only when there were sounds of some sort present. Others asserted that they "felt" the wall. It was on the basis of these opposing reports that the subsequent series of experiments were fashioned.

The possibility of pressure sensations reaching the face were eliminated by a veil of heavy felt. The veil was constructed to cover the entire face without coming into contact with it. The subjects as a group, however, were able to detect the wall almost as accurately as before.

WINDJAMMERS OF YESTERYEAR BEING RESTORED TO SERVICE

(By International News Service)

SAN FRANCISCO — Ensign of the Panama merchant marine was unfurled on the mizzenmast of the famed old bark Star of Finland at a brief ceremony recently at Bethlehem shipyards.

The event signalized the return of the first of a group of Pacific Coast windjammers expected to re-enter off-shore trades due to the feverish demand for ships caused by sales and by bomber and submarine activity abroad.

Representing the best product of the American shipbuilder in the period following the close of the clipper ship days, the vessel was built as the dream of a king, later became a movie queen herself, working as a property off southern California in maritime films.

The Star of Finland was launched in 1888 at the famous Arthur Sewall yard at Bath, Me., and was christened the Kaiulani, on order of King Kalakua of Hawaii who dreamed of a federation of South Sea Islands with a merchant marine greater than that of Great Britain.

After the king's death, the ship, which had been in the Pacific sugar trade, was sold to the Alaska Packers where she became a unit of a great fleet of 28 windjammers plying the fish trade between the coast and the Bering sea. She is the holder of several record runs between San Francisco and Bristol Bay.

Today the only other square rigger on the coast is her sister ship, the Star of India, owned by the San Diego Zoological society and used as a waterfront museum.

The others? Star of Chile is a coal barge; Star of Alaska became a gambling palace off Santa Monica, Cal.; Star of France is a prison hulk at Noumea in the South Seas; the Star of Greenland was a Norwegian training ship before the war.

Previous to the embargo, the Star of Zealand and the Star of Lapland were sold to Japan and sailed with cargoes of scrap iron to Osaka where eventually the ships themselves were turned to scrap.

Of steel construction, the Star of Finland is 225 feet in length, and of 1,699 gross tons. She will lift a cargo of lumber and other bulk materials around the Horn to an Allied port within the next few weeks, shipping circles said.

Of the famous wars, the Trojan lasted nine years, the Peloponnesian 27, the First Punic War 17, the Hundred Years' war 114, and the War of the Roses 30.

MYERS-BOWDEN VOWS SOLEMNIZED SUNDAY

Pretty Home Service Read At Wolfelt Residence In Galion for Miss Ruby Myers of That City and Richard Bowden of Mansfield.

RICHARD BOWDEN of this city took as his bride, Sunday, Miss Ruby Estella Myers, daughter of Mrs. H. W. Wolfelt of Galion and the late Harry P. Myers. The pretty home ceremony was solemnized in Galion at 3:30 o'clock by Rev. R. R. Elliker, pastor of the First Reformed church. Mr. Bowden is the son of W. W. Bowden, 24½ West Fourth street, and the late Mrs. Bowden.

An attractive setting for the single ring ceremony was arranged before the bay window in the living room of the bride's home. The improvised altar was banked with palms and vases of huckleberry foliage and variegated ivy. A large beauty vase in the center of the arrangement held yellow and white chrysanthemums, and in the background on either side the two seven-branched candelabra holding ivory tapers were trimmed with clusters of white and yellow mums tied with ivy. In the same room and the two adjoining rooms where the 40 guests were seated, arrangements of huckleberry and bronze and yellow pompons were placed.

The guests were seated by the bride's two brothers, Harry of Sewickley, Pa., and Donald of Galion.

Before the ceremony, a program of nuptial numbers was played on the piano by the bridegroom's sister, Miss Alfaretta Bowden of Mansfield. Her numbers were Rubenstein's "Romance;" "Evening Star," Wagner; and Schumann's "Traumeri."

As the bride and her attendant, Miss Berniece Stoffer of Tiffin, a close friend, descended the stairs, Miss Bowden played the Lohengrin wedding march. She also played softly while the vows were being repeated. Two numbers, "The Sweetest Story Ever Told," and "Because," were sung by the bride's aunt, Mrs. Earl Eichhorn of Galion, before the wedding march was played.

The bridal gown was of pale blue chiffon velvet, fashioned with the new long bodice and floor-length full skirt. The sleeves were short and the neckline was round. With this she wore gold accessories and a cameo necklace with matching bracelet, gifts of the bridegroom. Her bridal bouquet was a semi-Colonial of Johanna Hill roses and white pompons from which extended white satin shower ribbons. A small cluster of the same flowers were worn in her hair.

Miss Stoffer's gown was a darker blue chiffon velvet, fashioned like that of the bride. Her accessories were silver, and in her semi-Colonial bouquet were bronze and yellow pompons with Talisman satin shower ribbons. A small cluster of matching flowers was worn in her hair.

The bride's mother and the bridegroom's sister each wore shoulder corsages of bronze pompons.

Mr. Bowden had William Enlow of Mansfield as his best man.

The reception that followed was held in the home, refreshments being served from the dining room where the table was centered with an arrangement of white pompons intermingled with Johanna Hill roses and English ivy. Tall ivory tapers were used on either side of the centerpiece, and the wedding cake at the end of the table was decorated with white pompons and Johanna Hill roses, with variegated ivy encircling the base of the cake. Bronze and yellow pompons were used on the buffet where ivory tapers also added to the setting. Presiding during the serving were Mrs. Charles Huck of Mansfield, cousin of the bride; Miss Dorothy Rogers and Miss Raeanna Coss of Mansfield and Mrs Harry Myers of Sewickley, Pa., sister-in-law of the bride.

When the couple left on a wedding trip through the New England states, the new Mrs. Bowden was wearing a brown wool plaid suit with brown accessories. Her corsage was a large yellow chrysanthemum tied with Talisman satin ribbons.

When they return, Mr. Bowden and his bride will live at 246 Taylor Road, Mansfield.

Mrs. Bowden had been employed as bookkeeper for G. L. Rogers of Mansfield She was graduated from Galion High school in 1933, and later from the Mansfield Business College.

Mr. Bowden is assistant circulation manager of The Mansfield News-Journal. He was gradauted from Mansfield High school, and also attended a Mansfield business school.

Besides the above mentioned out-of-town guests, the following also were present for the wedding and reception: Mr and Mrs. G. L. Rogers, Mrs William Enlow, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Huck, Martin Heskett, Paul While, Robert Boyd, Fred Ackerman, Mr. and Mrs. Guthrie, Mrs. Kerr, Mr. and Mrs Albert Netting and son Fred, and W. W. Bowden all of Mansfield.

Wed At St. Peter's Church

Mrs. John Rabal is pictured above. She exchanged wedding vows with Mr. Rabal on Oct. 15 before the altar of the St. Peter's Catholic church. Before her marriage she was Martha Jane Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Steven J. Brown, 41½ Baldwin avenue.

Margery Dise Will Wed Merle Spurgeon Nov. 8

At a tea given Sunday afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock, friends of Miss Margery Dise, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Dise, 237 Wood street, learned of her approaching marriage to Merle Spurgeon, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. G. Spurgeon, 33 Clifton avenue. The open church wedding will be solemnized Saturday afternoon, Nov. 8, at 3 o'clock before the altar of the St. Matthew's Lutheran church.

Miss Dise has chosen for her attendants, her sister, Mrs. Edward T. Holmquist of Akron, matron of honor, Misses Gwendolyn Taylor, a cousin, of Mansfield, and Miss Doris Bush of Columbus, bridesmaids.

Mrs. Holmquist was hostess for the party yesterday at the Dise home. The afternoon was spent socially and when tea was served the guests discovered the date when they viewed the centerpiece. A large crystal bowl filled with roses also held a tall cylinder containing chemically treated balls which floated. These balls were marked with the names and date of the marriage.

Mrs. Fred Caston of Cleveland and Mrs. Donald Chapman of Mansfield, cousins of the bride-elect, presided when tea was served. Fall colors were used effectively for the table decorations.

The first in the series of prenuptial parties for Miss Dise will be given this Thursday evening by members of the choir of the St. Matthew's Lutheran church. The group will meet at the home of Mrs. Charles Sheriff, Sherman place. On Oct. 31 Miss Bush of Columbus and Miss Margaret Austin will entertain for her at the Susie Janis home, Park avenue west road. Mrs. Caston and Miss Taylor will be hostesses for a party on Saturday, Nov. 1.

LEAVES ON TRIP.

Mrs. C. B. Gray, 115 Poplar street, left Sunday for Wheeling, W. Va., to visit her daughter, Mrs. E. C. Drake.

Styles Recall Many Famous Fashion Eras

Fall styles continue to offer everything from matador hats to Chinese slippers. No matter what the status of one's wardrobe, fashion makes interesting study. It recalls the sequin era of 1913, with hobble skirts and ermine capes; the Lillian Russell era of feminine ruffles and pompadours; the boas and stoles and muffs of 1905.

Among the styles reminiscent of old pictures are the bloomer frocks. Look for the tunics with the bloomer hems, bloused below the hipline. Bloomer sleeves caught at the wrist are numerous in both afternoon and dinner dresses. Bloomer skirts variously called "Mati Hari" and Harem drapes are seen in the more formal evening gowns. Bloomer drapes on the backs of berets are a little fuller and longer than the snoods and wimple of the past few years.

One sees many versions of the Abbess Silhouette, which takes into account the kimono and dolman sleeves, and the monastic skirts, and uses hundreds of yards of Celanese rayon jersey, a fabric particularly adapted to the soft lines of this silhouette. Many of these frocks are called Indian summer jerseys, because they fulfill the need for a lightweight fabric with a fall look about it.

One of the most striking groups of dresses to be shown in New York this week featured black Celanese crepe in afternoon and cocktail dresses garnished with silvery gilt. Like matador embroidery, the shiny gilt trimmed the rounded shoulders of the dresses, or was used for belts, pockets or trimming bands on the dresses. Most of the dresses were worn with small pill-box hats entirely covered with the gilt embroidery.

Color up your sleeve is one of those down-to-earth style ideas used time and time again in new ways. It brings color close to the face and is, therefore, flattering and gay-looking. Bands of color may run up a loose sleeve from the cuff to the neckline. Or the entire sleeve may be in a bright color contrasting with the rest of the dress. Colored bands are worn like epaulets over the shoulders only, and sometimes a wide kimono sleeve will be deeply faced inside with a brilliant color, which is repeated in a belt or ornament on the dress.

Brides-Elect Are Honored at Party Given By Two

Miss Margaret Harrold and Miss Betty Koogle, brides-elect, were feted at a party Sunday by Mrs. Eugene Almy and Mrs. Neil Case at the home of Mrs. W. M. Johnson on the Lexington avenue road. Miss Harrold will become the bride of Sgt. Howard Peranthaner, who is stationed at Camp Shelby, Miss., in an open church ceremony Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. before the altar of the Central Methodist church. Miss Koogle will exchange nuptial vows with E. A. Frisbee of Dover, N. J., Nov. 1 at 2:30 p. m. at St. Luke's Lutheran church.

Games and contests were diversions of the afternoon for the ten guests in attendance. Prizes were won by Miss Harrold and Miss Betty Fisher. Luncheon was served buffet style from a long table centered with a miniature bridal procession and decorated with fall flowers. Each guest was presented with a rose. The hostesses presented the honorees with a gift. Miss Fisher poured at the luncheon table.

Dual Style Suit Shown In Crepe; Brocades Shown

The dual style possibility in a single suit was beautifully demonstrated in an afternoon ensemble by Helen Cookman. The three-piece suit was made of black Hunter's Moon, a soft, mossy crepe, and combined with blue metallic brocade to serve in four different styles—an all-black suit for town wear; a cocktail suit showing flashes of the blue brocade; a blouse and skirt combination; or an all-brocade dress for dancing.

Another designer who believes in change-about effects is Dorothy Couteaur. Famous last season for her original over-all pajama suit called the "Quickster," she adds another triumph in her equally-clever evening dress of blue and white printed Jersanese, with side draping and trimming of white bows. The stiff, white bows start at the left shoulders and cascade down to a point below the knee where the skirt is slit to the hem. Then, in a jiffy, they may be unsnapped and worn around the shoulders like a feather boa.

Metal Brocades.

Many of the evening gowns were made of metal brocades in Balletints and shown against a background of the lovely young ballet dancers who wore the complete range of colors. These were subtle off-shades of pink, peach, violet, yellow, blues, etc., with such romantic names as "Aurora's Wedding," "Minuet," "Swan Lake," "Prince Igor," etc. One of the brocades in an evening ensemble designed by Wilson Folmar of Jay Thorpe, was made in Dress Circle brocade in a luscious shade of chartreuse, and topped by a full-length cape of the same brocade.

Fira Benenson of Bonwit Teller chose a Sargent portrait as the style inspiration for her dinner suit of gold brocade with its slimly molded jacket and straight skirt given swish toward the back. A brown satin brimmed hat with brown and gold ostrich trimming and long brown suede gloves completed the picture.

Often the designer was lavish in the use of paillettes and sequins. Julia Cerrella of Milgrim's made a startling contribution to this idea in a handsome, full-skirted romantic gown bordered with deep bands of copper sequins, matching long sleeves of the sequins.

SUE KOZIK BECOMES BRIDE HERE OCT. 16

Quiet Service Solemnized At First Lutheran Church for Miss Kozik of Raymond Avenue, and Robert Burns of Washington, D. C.

THE marriage of Miss Sue Kozik, daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Kozik, 86 Raymond avenue, and A. Robert Burns of Washington, D. C., was solemnized on Oct. 16 before the altar of the First Lutheran church. Rev. Grover Swoyer officiated for the single ring service.

Miss Kozik wore a street length gown of black and powder blue crepe, fashioned with dolman sleeves and metallic trim, with matching accessories. Her Colonial corsage was of Talisman roses and white mums. For the traditional "something old" the bride carried a white lace handkerchief which was made and carried by the bridegroom's mother at her wedding.

They were attended by Mrs. Anthony Keseros and Ray Lantz. Mrs. Keseros was attired in a street length gown of black and white and wore a corsage of yellow roses and mums.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Burns were graduated from Mansfield Business Training school. Mrs. Burns is employed by the Central Fruit and Grocery company, and Mr. Burns is associated with the Securities and Exchange Commission of Washington, D. C.

They will leave shortly for Washington where they will make their home at 2200 Prout street, S. E.

Service Held At Church Parsonage

Miss Dorothy Helen Hoffman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Hoffman, Woodville road, became the bride of Roy Nestor Billotte, son of Mrs. Fanny Rolley of Frenchville, Pa., on Oct. 18. The quiet service was solemnized at the parsonage of the St. Matthew's Lutheran church by Rev. Charles Sheriff.

The bride was attired in a soldier blue street length frock with wine accessories and a corsage of red roses. Miss Nora Leigey, sister of the bridegroom, was the only attendant. She wore a navy frock with wine accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Billotte will reside at 219 West First street.

BIRTHDAY PARTY.

Mrs. Amanda Calver, who observed her 91st birthday anniversary last week, was honored at a dinner recently at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Harry Snider, West Fifth street. Dinner was served at a long table centered with a cake and decorated with lighted tapers and fall flowers. Games and contests were diversions of the evening. The honored guest was presented with many gifts.

Four Give Party For Bride-Elect At Susie Janis

Miss Virginia Walker, bride-elect of R. Clifton Scouten, was feted with a bathroom shower recently at the Susie Janis home by four hostesses. They were Mrs. Ted Patterson, Miss Doris Bush, Mrs. Arthur Berry, and Mrs. Barnett Tupps. Twelve guests were in attendance.

Bridge was the diversion of the evening. Prizes were won by Miss Marie Ellen Campbell and Miss June Miles. Luncheon was served at a long table decorated with pink and white appointments and centered with a miniature bridal procession. The guests presented the honoree with many gifts. Out-of-town guests attending the party were Mrs. J. S. Walker of Palmyra and Mrs. Robert Hammett of Nova.

Miss Walker, who is now employed in Columbus, will exchange nuptial vows with Mr. Scouten, also of Columbus, Nov. 1 at 6:30 in Palmyra. Mr. Scouten is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Vale Scouten, 53 Parkwood boulevard. Miss Walker will be honored at a miscellaneous shower Saturday evening at the Colonial Guest house by Mrs. Benton Doolittle, Mrs. Martin Smith, and Miss Mary Daubenspeck.

ENTERTAIN CLUB.

Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Bauer, 222 Saxton road, entertained members of the Meld-More Pinochle club at their home recently. Cards were the diversion of the evening and prizes were won by Mrs. John Selby, Alvin Fankhauser and Mr. and Mrs. James Miller. Luncheon was served at the close of the evening at a long table decorated with fall flowers and lighted tapers. Mr. and Mrs. John Selby will entertain the club at their home at 684 West Fourth street on Nov. 22.

"Faint Heart Ne'er Won Fair Lady"

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

While in my senior year I became acquainted with a girl I liked very much. But I graduated before I could get to know her really well. I see her occasionally, but I understand it's the girl's place to speak first, so unless she talks to me, I'm afraid to even say "hello." She isn't the kind of a girl who would snub a boy, so I can't understand why at times she speaks and then again she doesn't notice me. I had reason to believe she was interested in me at school before I even was aware of her. I would like to know her better. How?

JASPER.

For goodness sake, Jasper, don't stand shivering on the brink of what might be a very agreeable friendship. You have both been to school together and what could be a better introduction than that?

Next time you see this young lady, take matters into your own hands. Stop and have a friendly chat, or invite her to go to a movie, or have a sundae or something like that. And don't lose sight of that heartening proverb or the shy: "Faint heart ne'er won fair lady."

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I'm in love with two very likeable young men and both of them have asked me to marry them. The one I like best isn't very dependable. When I go on a trip somewhere, he often doesn't write me at all, and when he goes on business trips, as he often does, he seems to forget that he knows me. Every time I set a date for our marraige, he makes some sort of excuse to get out of it.

The other man is quite different. He's devoted, does anything to ask, and right now is waiting for my answer as to whether or not I'll marry him. Which would make the better husband?

WONDERING.

I don't believe you are very deeply in love with either of these young men or you would know which you prefer. As far as the first one is concerned, he seems to have settled the matter by putting off the wedding when ever you name the date.

As you do not seem to know your own mind, why think of marriage at all at present?

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I used to go with a young man who is six years older than I am, who always considered himself a little better, due to his more liberal education. We haven't gone "steady" for a year, but every time I see him I like him better. He's work in offices in the same building, and whenever he sees me he is ready with a compliment about how I look, or something new I may have on. He comes up to the house occasionally, and seems fond of me. But I don't know if he does it to be courteous or if he is really in love with me.

I've gone with other young men in this past year, but it seems that he is the one uppermost in my thoughts. I've been invited to a party at a friend's home and have been asked to bring a young man. Would it be correct for me to ask him?

JANE.

By all means ask him to the party, look your very best, and give him an opportunity to pay his usual compliments with interest. My best wishes.

CUDDLE TOYS PATTERN 2995

Cute aren't they? Cost next to nothing to make too! Why not make this cuddly trio to fill a Christmas stocking and bring joy to a tot? Each toy is made of two pieces — the bunny's ears are separate. Pattern 2995 contains a transfer pattern of three toys; directions for making; materials required.

Send ten cents in coin for this pattern to The Mansfield News-Journal, Needlecraft Department, 82 Eighth Avenue, New York, N. Y. Write plainly Pattern Number, your Name and Address.

The junior crowd adores it for its youthful verve...the dirndl dress so becoming to their slender figures! Pattern 9761 by Marian Martin is a versatile design—you can make a short-sleeved dress all of one fabric, and use contrast bands or ready-made braid at the neck, sleeves, waist and hem. Or you may make the bodice of contrasting fabric with long sleeves gathered into a wristband. For perky trim you might add three buttons on the waistband in front, and perhaps a touch of lace or self-ruffling on the bodice. The Sew Chart shows you every detail!

Pattern 9761 may be ordered only in girls' sizes 6, 8, 10, 12 and 14. Size 12, short-sleeve dress, requires 3⅜ yards 35 inch fabric and 4⅞ yards banding; long-sleeved bodice, 1½ yards 39 inch fabric and skirt, 1½ yards 54 inch contrast.

Send 15 cents in coins for this Marian Martin pattern. Be sure to write plainly your Size, Name, Address and Style Number.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

Miss Whitlock's rather heavy eyebrows knitted at my question, and she did not answer it at once, evidently pondering her reply.

"Nothing, except what I already have told you," she said at last. "Her odd costume, her disguising glasses, her maneuvers with the different taxicabs going there, and her last clever ruse on leaving, in getting a taxi which she was sure wasn't intended to have her as a passenger—these were the only things I noticed. But, of course, her costume—"

"Was already outlined by the gangster who, we are sure, dictated this letter to Mario...," I said. "But the other things are worthy of thought."

I had no time to tell her what thought, for I knew that I must not delay further going downstairs to the library. For I feared that the patience of my father, waiting there for me with Harry Underwood, would be exhausted, although I had counted on his ignorance of needlework to account for my supposed slowness in sewing up the hem of Lillian's quilted robe.

Gives Copy to Nurse.

Putting the copy of Marion's letter she had made for me into its envelope, I rose from my chair and held it out to Miss Whitlock.

"I fancy the safest place for this is in your bag again," I said. "Until I have a chance to tell Mrs. Underwood what we have done, I cannot risk her guessing our activities."

Without a word the nurse took the letter and locked it away in her bag, while I went to the door. Then she stopped me with a muted but imperative "Please!" before I could open it.

"You said 'we' just now in speaking of the work on the letter and the robe," she began, in a voice that held firmness as well as deference. "But I know you realize that what would be a pardonable activity on your part in solving your friend's tragic problem, would be an impertinence on mine. I am sure you will keep whatever aid I have given you—and it has been given with great willingness, I can assure you—as a secret between you and me, alone."

Grateful For Help.

I moved quickly from the door, and put my hand on her shoulder.

"Of course I'll not speak of it to anyone," I told her. "And I haven't had time to thank you for your help which has given me time to study that letter before I go down to my father, who must not suspect I have a copy of it. But I am most grateful, and I also wish you to know that Mrs. Underwood ordinarily would not consider your aid an impertinence, but would be extremely grateful for aid. However, in her present state of mind, she doubtles would resent even my meddling with her robe.

"And now, I simply must rush off. I know you will call us if Mrs. Underwood shows signs of waking. I should like to be here when she opens her eyes, and I know her husband will wish to come back here as soon as possible."

"I shall not wait until she awakens to call either of you," Miss Whitlock said. "When the time limit of the sedative is nearly up, I shall ask you both to come up."

"We will answer that call as soon as you make it," I assured her, and went out of the room and down the stairs to the library.

My father and Harry Underwood rose to their feet as I entered and I saw the copy of Marion's letter, which I had made for them, lying spread out with the code book between them.

"You have finished the work?" my father asked, and I knew that he was making an heroic attempt to keep impatient reproach out of his voice.

"Yes, it is all done, and all trace of the work removed," I told him. "I know I took an unconscionably long time, but I thought it necessary to imitate Lillian's stitches. Now I am reasonably sure she never will detect that hem has been opened."

I told myself that I had spared myself a direct lie, yet I had protected Miss Whitlock by a subterfuge of which my Puritan conscience, badly warped I am afraid in these strenuous days, distinctly disapproved.

"If you are reasonably sure," my father said with a sudden smile at me, "then we are absolutely certain. Now, how long can you be spared from Lillian's room?"

CONSERVES FOR DEFENSE

And Pays To Do It

Some time ago, Gordor Schwan, local dry cleaner, had an idea which would be mutually profitable to local clubs and to his business, and offered five cents per dozen for used wire garment hangers to any and all civic and church groups. Defense and priorities came to the foreground during the past few months, and now Mr. Schwan is boosting the conservation of hangers by raising his offer to 10 cents per dozen. He estimates that he is conserving 125 pounds of valuable steel for each 1000 wire coat hangers he encourages Mansfielders to save.

Schwan believes that if a cleaner in each town in the United States would adopt this same plan, thousands of tons of steel would be gathered out of attics and closets.

Mr. Schwan says he is willing to pay for wire hangers in good condition, for Swan Cleaners use them in their daily business. The idea helps local clubs, helps defense, and helps Swan Cleaners get wire hangers, which are already included in the list of items which are becoming scarce. Full details will be found in the Swan Cleaner ad on Page 2 in today's News-Journal.—Adv.

Be Faithful To Beauty Duties

By MME. QUI VIVE

Let no woman fancy that there are magic cosmetics that will create a new face overnight. It simply can't be done. Valuable aids can be found, will bring gratifying results if used regularly and continuously. We all know Miss Harum-Scarum, whose beautifying efforts follow the stop-and-go system. She buzzes to town, spends vast sums of cash-coin-spending-change for toiletries. She comes staggering home under a load of parcels containing jars, bottles, powders and what-nots that she has snatched from counters in a haphazard manner. She's r'aring to go on the road to pulchritude.

For several days, or maybe weeks, she is fired with enthusiasm. She uses this preparation and that, never gives her poor complexion a rest. It may get mad and blaze up at her. Depression seizes her. Cosmetics, she says, are not what they are hooted up to be. She hasn't cooperated with her newly acquired aids. She may have gorged on too many good things of the table, stayed out late o' nights, disregarded the simple laws of health by not eating properly or getting sufficient sleep. She has an idea that cosmetics can make up for wear and tear. They can't. It is expecting too much of them.

Cosmetics will come through with flying colors if they are backed up by sensible living habits.

Care of the complexion must go on faithfully, not spasmodically. Scrupulous cleanliness is the first need, and it is important. Clear away make up with a thin cream or oil, before washing the face with soap and water. Be particular about the soap you use. What's best for the woman next door, may not be the best for you. Even the blandest, mildest soap should be thoroughly rinsed away; if it isn't the skin will appear oily, powder will disappear, makeup will be spotty and unfinished.

After the rinsing, dry gently. Fold a soft towel around your fingers, go patting upward from chin to forward hair line; that brisk slapping is a form of treatment that hardens the tissues, whisks the blood streams to action. Use a cream again. If there are signs of wrinkles, employ a heavy cream; let it remain on overnight.

Muscles elsewhere on the body keep young and firm through exercise. Facial muscles can be toned only by massage, an aid that too few women appreciate. Light tapping movements are invigorating. Hammer strokes with the fingertips keep tissues from going saggy; sagging tissues are wrinkle greeters.

Fine texture must be retained. Coarse texture is usually the result of a rich, heavy diet that stimulates the sebacous glands, causes pores to expand. A little less pastry and rich sauces, madame; more fruits, vegetables, green salads, clear broths.

HOROSCOPE

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Tuesday, Oct. 21.

While this may prove to be an unusually active day, in both private and business enterprise, yet these opportunities may not reach progressive and productive culminations unless an unusual degree of asuteness, cleverness and proper initiative be brought to bear on certain restricting and thwarting circumstances.

Those whose birthday it is are confronted by a year in which their own ability, industry and soundness of ideas and processes may culminate in real though perhaps delayed success. Certain adverse, delaying and restricting situations should be met by straightforward methods, rather than cunning.

A child born on this day should be resourceful, versatile, deep and shrewd with tendencies to force issues by clever and easy ways.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

BY Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

A HELPFUL METHOD

MANY OF the finest players still find the old count favored by the late Milton C. Work to be of value in helping estimate the possibilities of hands played at No Trump contracts. Rating an ace at 4, king at 3, queen at 2 and jack at 1, an average hand containing one of each or its equivalent would total 10. Based on this, analysis of myriad hands showed that, when the strength was sprinkled among the various suits and somewhat divided between the partners, there would usually be a play for 3-No Trumps if the side had a total of 24 count, and for 2-No Trumps with 22.

So if strong No Trump openers were being used, and the bid showed a minimum of 16 count, the partner would know that 6 would be enough to justify a raise to 2-No Trumps and 8 enough for a jump to 3-No Trumps. Of course, after a raise to 2-No Trumps, showing 6, if the opener had an extra 2, or 18, he could reach the rest of the way. The same principle applies if the opener uses weak No. Trumps, as low as a 13 count, just a king above average.

Dealer	Partner
♠ K 8 5	♠ Q J 4
♥ 7 3 2	♥ A Q 6 5
♦ A Q 6 3	♦ 7 5 2
♣ K J 4	♣ Q 8 2

With those hands, if the dealer bid 1-Diamond, his partner 1-Heart and he then 1-No Trump, showing only the minimum of 13 count, his partner with 11 could jump to game, knowing he probably would make it if his partner was at all above irreducible minimum, probably a long-shot chance even with a minimum.

If the partner of the dealer had only 9 count, that added to 13 would make only 22, so he could bid only to 2-No Trumps. The dealer then would pass, but would go on if he had an extra 2, or 15.

There are many other combinations. For instance, a dealer with 17 count and a partner with 7. If that bidding started with 1-Diamond—1-Heart, the original bidder could then call 2-No Trumps, allowing the partner leeway to bid 3-Hearts if he had a long suit in a very weak hand, but encouraging him to 3-No Trumps if he had about a 7 count.

Using this count is not meant to change your bidding system at all, or any of your partner's bids, but to help you be a bit more accurate yourself in doubtful spots.

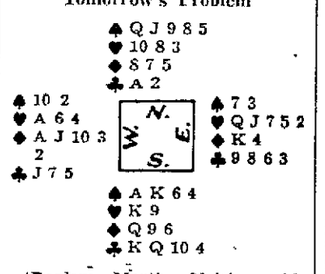
Tomorrow's Problem



(Dealer: North. Neither side vulnerable.)

What unusual play should East make on this deal, in order to hold North to exactly his contract of 2-Spades?

Teach Child Music In Vacation

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

After a week or two of vacation the average runabout child may find time heavy on his hands. For a good many children whose parents wish them to have instrumental music lessons, summer would be the best time of year for these lessons. While to a few such children having to practice during vacation might seem a terrible burden, many others having skillful parents might wish to co-operate with them. If several children who are playmates all had music lessons during summer, none of them would object. On the contrary, they might like it.

Some children taking music lessons during the school year do so at too great cost to their physical and mental health. Music practice is just one of the many things which may consume nearly all their time outside of school and deprive them of their coveted and greatly needed hours of play out of doors with other children.

Win Child's Co-operation.

To win the child's best co-operation his parents would, of course, have to exercise considerable skill. They would aim to keep the child from thinking these lessons a burden or means of punishment. Some children over eight or ten might be induced to co-operate in such a summer program in order to be ready to become members of the band or orchestra at school.

The child who has not yet begun with instrumental music lessons might most readily grow adapted to such a summer program. Whether summer or winter, he should practice at a regular time each day, preferably for two or more short periods rather than a single long one. Except for illness he should not, as a rule, be allowed to give up the program.

The beginner usually will learn instrumental music best, and at less total cost, if for he first several weeks or months all his practice is with the teacher, the purpose being to prevent early errors and promote accurate learning in the early stages. These early successes in any skill are important for later progress and for assuring the learner he can succeed.

Practice Required.

For most children the early years and months require considerable drudgery, and continuous practice. But as skill improves, following the jumping of these earlier hard hurdles, the practice tends to grow less a task and more a pleasure.

If any parent happens to find her child always eager to practice or inclined to practice longer than is expected of her, this parent has good reason to be very happy and thankful. The child is probably only one in a thousand. There is no royal road to learning to play a musical instrument. It is hard work.

If your child has trouble with arithmetic, write me at 235 East 45th Street, New York City, about his trouble as you understand it, and let my try to offer some help. Please enclose a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp.

Solving Parent Problems.

Q. When my boy twelve years old is preparing written school work at home, he often will ask me or his father to spell a word for him. Should we spell it, or tell him to look it up in the dictionary?

A. Spell it, by all means. If you tell him to look up the word himself he probably will guess at it instead. Anyway, it is very hard to find a word in the dictionary when you don't know how to spell it.

Let's Try to Dress Up the Coffee Cake

By BETSY NEWMAN

Whether it's breakfast, lunch, Sunday supper or even dinner, a coffee cake is appreciated. You can serve it for dessert for the last named meal. At breakfast serve it with bacon or sausages, scrambled eggs or omelet, and then sit back and hear the plaudits of the crowd.

Today's Menu.

Fruit Juice or Fresh Fruit
Scrambled Eggs with Sausages
Quick Coffee Cake
with Streusel Topping
Coffee

½ lb. pork
Sausage links
Eggs Pepper, salt

Scald sausages in hot water, then fry until well done and brown. Cut into small pieces. Beat eggs, add milk, season, and pour into hot frying pan in which butter has been melted. Stir, turning over and over, and just before eggs are right consistency to serve, add pieces of sausages. Serve very hot with coffee cake.

* * *

Quick Coffee Cake with Streusel Topping.

1½ cups sifted flour
½ cup sugar
2 tsps. all phosphate baking powder
½ tsp. salt
1 egg, beaten
⅓ cup milk
3 Tbsps. melted shortening

Sift dry ingredients together, combine egg, milk and shortening and add to dry ingredients, stirring just enough to moisten. Pour into greased loaf pan, cover with streusel topping, and bake in moderately hot oven (425° F.) for 25 minutes.

* * *

Streusel Topping.

2 Tbsp. butter
2 Tbsps. sugar
1 tsp ground cinnamon
¼ cup sifted flour
¾ cup dry bread crumbs

Cream butter and sugar together, add cinnamon, flour and crumbs. Mix to consistency of coarse crumbs and spread over top of coffee cake.

When Patrons Speak of Funeral Service

Among our valued possessions are the letters sent us by the families we have served.

Some we had helped to met a serious financial problem with satisfactory service at less than they had expected to pay. Others were pleased by the personal care and attention. All will have a memory to be cherished in future years with no regrets.

Finefrock Funeral Service can please so many people because it is understanding, personal service, supplemented by fine equipment and a beautiful Funeral Home . . . and, important to say, it costs no more than any other.

GEN. JOHNSON:

By Gen. HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON — What about the "black-out" business? A friend of mine living in the country on the eastern seaboard gave a party for the golden-wedding of his parents. Children and grandchildren came from half a dozen states of the union. Just at the height of the festivities, a caretaker on a neighboring place pounded on the door and told them roughly and rudely to put out all their lights. The host was bewildered. He hadn't heard about the black-out. He was told that it was on. "Why?" An air raid. "When? By whom?" I don't know but if you don't put out those lights, I'll call the state cops. "O.K., call them."

Johnson

So the cops came. They didn't know what it was all about either but those lights had to go out. By this time the outraged householder had his Americanism up "Who says so?" We say so. "Well you can just go to hell."

In another similar case one burly cop started to push past the door with a remark: "If you don't put 'em out, I'll put 'em out." The householder asked him to consider and said: "If you break into this house without a warrant, it will be my right and duty to kill you."

"Ah-ha, so you've got a gun, have you?" Here seemed to be something final on the "Village Hampden' and the copper triumphantly queried: "Got a permit?" The answer was simple and sufficient: "Yes."

There was an official retreat but with a parting threat. "OK, Buddie, but you will probably be reported to the F.B.I. as un-American, probably a Nazi sympathizer and possibly a fifth columnist." Considering the man's standing this was perfectly ludicrous.

In the meantime, the blinkers of the highway lights were going like mad and ladies in "attractive uniforms" were dashing up and down the roads in fire-trucks and other vehicles fully lighted, caring for the synthetic casualties.

Maybe I don't understand it all, but this sort of illegal unauthorized and unnecessary trifling with privacy seems to me utter nonsense. There isn't any more likelihood of a German air-raid in any such proportions as would justify this than there is of the collapse of the solar system. If there were, there would be nobody who would fail to cooperate.

Since there isn't, what appraisal can be made of this sort of monkey business other than that it is a deliberate attempt to scare up a war-hysteria on the basis of fiction rather than fact.

Mayor LaGuardia seems to have been drafted in this questionable service. It would be a lot better if they got Orson Welles. He demonstrated to this country what really could be done in sending some people into an emotional and panic-stricken fit.

This kind of thing is not merely an unauthorized official bulldozing of private citizens. It interferes with the normal functioning of our economic system so necessary to our real defense effort, not to mention its attempt to scare people out of their unvexed reasoning on the awful question of war or peace. It adds nothing to the essentials of sound national defense and, considering stupendous failures in the organization and execution of that hard, slow work-a-day job, it raises some question whether it is not a spectacular attempt to divert critical attention away from it, and toward the opposite side of the stage.

RENEWS APPEAL FOOD BE SENT TO EUROPEANS

Hoover Declares Millions In Conquered Countries Face Starvation.

(By United Press)

NEW YORK — Former President Herbert Hoover renewed his appeal last night for the distribution of food among the civil populations of German-conquered Europe, where "millions of children are in jeopardy" of starvation.

Speaking over a nation-wide radio hook-up of the Mutual Broadcasting system, he said he had asked the state department to "enlist the aid of some of the remaining neutral governments, such as Switzerland, Sweden, Argentina or Ireland, to act as trustee for these hapless people," and had been rebuffed in a "curt letter."

"I do not believe it would make the slightest difference in the military outcome of this war if we assured food to the needy among the whole 40,000,000 democratic children of Europe," he said. "The Germans will not lose this war from a shortage of food. And eminent soldiers agree with me."

The proposal made to the state department, he said, called for the Germans to supply bread stuffs, of which they were said to have a surplus while fats and special food for children were sent through the British blockade. Germany was to refrain from taking native food products and a neutral government was to supervise distribution.

"The Germans went a long way toward that agreement," he said "The British decided against it, although it was to be safeguarded to meet their every military objection. . . .

"The starvation we forecast a year ago and which we hoped to prevent has swept over many of these innocent people during the last winter."

Author Louis Bromfield leaves Wednesday for New York where he'll speak Friday before a meeting of the Friends of the Land. After that he'll go to Springfield for a lecture which was to have been broadcast to France. All facilities were arranged at a Boston studio to shortwave the speech when Bromfield discovered it was in Springfield, Mo., not Springfield, Mass., that he was to lecture before the Community Teachers' Association. Consequently he will be taking a quick train ride from New York to the midwest and the talk will not be radioed to France until sometime in November.

William J. Beer, jr., clerk of council, is asked to serve in many unofficial capacities. The latest is Cupid or just the opposite, Beer isn't sure which. A letter from a woman in Boulder City, Nev., arrived at his office today asking him to inform her if a certain Mansfield man had filed suit for divorce or had received his final papers. "This is very important and vital to me," the woman wrote. Beer said he had never heard of the woman but supposed she was either intending to marry the Mansfielder or was being divorced from him.

Soft-shelled eggs are not unusual, but a soft-shelled egg with a completely developed hard-shelled egg inside of it is, and Mrs. Clinton Homerick, Shiloh R. "I've raised chickens for 20 years," she declared, "but I've never seen anything like it before."

With the autmun colors at their best in the southern Richland county hills, scores of Mansfielders went riding Sunday afternoon on country roads in the Butler, Bellville, and Lexington sections. Some of the secondary roads through the hills were busy with traffic despite the threatening weather. Although recent rains have put new life into pastures and wheat fields, the dry weather in August and September has taken some of the autumn beauty out of the leaves.

LEADERS CALL MEETINGS IN AFL DISPUTE

Unions Threaten Walkout In Entire City District Over Unorganized Workmen.

(By Associated Press)

PITTSBURGH — Government representatives and local business leaders, gravely concerned over the possibility of a general strike which would paralyze business and industry in the nation's greatest steel center, quickly brought about arbitration today in an attempt to forestall the threatened walkout a week hence of all American Federation of Labor unions in the Pittsburgh district.

The Chamber of Commerce arranged a meeting with AFL officials and the U. S. labor department directed Conciliator Charles R. Ward to seek negotiations.

James Ahearn, strike committee chairman and a steamfitter by trade, said the unions welcome the arbitration efforts nd "hope that this can be straightened out, because we don't want trouble."

However, a strike call definitely will be issued, he said, if the Duquesne Light company refuses to "remove non-union labor" from its $8,000,000 generating plant under construction at Weirton, 15 miles from Pittsburgh. The unions' sole object is to put AFL building trades workers on the Weirton jobs. It has picketed the project but construction continued.

The untility company declined comment.

The AFL central labor union, which authorized the strike call, claims 250,000 members. Ahearn said the unprecedented general walkout here would halt street car, bus and taxi service. Pittsburgh hotels would close. Truck and delivery service would stop and newspapers would suspend publication.

Bakers, laundry workers, musicians, theater and restaurant employes, engineers, machinists, retail food clerks and meat cutters, department store workers, all building trades craftsmen and others would be idle.

In short, Pittsburgh, with a population of 668,000, would be temporarily a dead city. Exceptions would be made in the case of its hospitals and garbage collection, Ahearn said.

75,000 TOLD OF U. S. ANTI-BLITZ

Crowds Hear Beightler Tell of Destroyer Units at Kent Defense Day.

KENT — (INS) — Approximately 75,000 people who jammed into this small city were confident today that the U. S. army knows what this blitz business is all about.

Speaking at the National Defense Day celebration here, Maj. Gen. Robert S. Beightler, commander of the 37th division, told the throng how American forces have learned to operate as "destroyer units" in combatting armored, mobile forces.

"Our destroyer forces are as American as Indian fighting," Gen Beightler stated. "It is strictly a hit and run proposition, following the best principles of Indian or guerilla warfare."

The Ohio 37th, he said, became known as the "road-racingest" division in the army because of its ability to get more places in a shorter time during recent war games in Louisiana.

Commenting upon morale, Gen. Beightler said it would be hypocrisy to deny that "complete unity of purpose, willingness to sacrifice and desire to work for defense do not exist in all quarters among all groups of the nation.

"The responsibility for final victory lies equally among capital, labor, management and the armed defense forces," he declared.

A colorful phase of the program was the partaking in a parade by a detachment of Royal Canadian Air Force flyers.

MURDER RING HEAD SCREAMS AS HE DIES IN ELECTRIC CHAIR

(By United Press)

BELLEFONTE, Pa — The man authorities believed ordered the deaths of at least 100 persons, died in the electric chair early today, whimpering and screaming in terror.

He was Herman Petrillo, 57, olive and spaghetti salesman, who headed Philadelphia's murder-for-insurance syndicate which specialized in ridding Italian women of unwanted husbands for a heavy cut of the insurance.

Petrillo was brought into the execution chamber of Rockview prison just after midnight, on rubbery legs, hysterically protesting his innocence.

Guards forced him to sit in the chair, forceably bent his arms down to the chair arms to be strapped. He was saying in broken English, "Gentlemen, you wouldn't want to witness the death of an innocent man—I want to see the governor."

The skull contact and the mask were put on his head and he screamed, then mumbled, then screamed again. At that instant, 2,000 volts hit him and he was dead.

Petrillo's cousin, Paul Petrillo, was electrocuted six months ago. He was co-leader. Both were naturalized citizens of Sicilian birth. Two women—clients of the syndicate, who got rid of unwanted husbands — were sentenced to death, but got commutations to life imprisonment. Eleven ring members are serving life sentences and six are serving shorter terms.

Petrillo was convicted specifically of the murder of Rafael Caruso, a cripple, who life the ring had insured heavily. He was drowned in the Schuylkill river at Philadelphia in July, 1934. The ring's favorite method was poison. It operated mainly in the Philadelphia Italian sections, but it also had "cases" in New Jersey, New York, Delaware, and Connecticut

GIVEN HONOR

Galen Cocanour, Farm Youth, Gets High Award.

Galen Stewart Cocanour, Franklin township farm youth, today became the second Richland countian ever to receive the American Farmer award for outstanding work with Future Farmer projects.

Young Cocanour, who has gained recognition with his Berkshire hogs, was honored at the 14th annual Future Farmers of America convention in Kansas City. He is at the convention.

Cocanour was one of seven farm youths from Ohio and about 200 from the nation to receive the honor. Among the other Ohioans honored was Merle Milton Voris of Johnstown.

Applicants' records were studied for accomplishments in actual farming, investments and earnings, school and community activities and leadership, and scholarship. To win the award applicants had to earn at least $500 and invest it in supervised home farming programs. Young Cocanour attended the Union rural high school.

Robert Walker of Springfield township received the American Farmer award about four years ago.

Midland Workers Return to Jobs

CLEVELAND —(INS)— Fourteen hundred workers at the Midland Steel Products company returned to their jobs today following the settlement of a labor dispute which caused the men to go out on strike Sept. 29

The Midland walkout, called by the CIO-United Automobile Workers union subsequently forced out of work 14,000 motor car workers in Michigan and Indiana because of a shortage of automobile frames made by Midland.

Decision to return to work was voted by the unionists at a meeting last Saturday afternoon after the company agreed on pay raises said to include boosts from eight to 13 cents an hour.

Says Crete Taught Nazis How Not To Invade England

WASHINGTON — (AP) — A suggestion that Crete taught the Germans a costly lesson on how not to invade England was advanced today by an American army parachute officer.

Lieutenant John E. Minter, jr., a member of the pioneer 501st parachute battalion at Fort Benning, Ga., estimated that upwards of 13,000 Nazi parachutists were dropped on the Greek island, "apparently at random," and that a large portion was wiped out.

"It was truly a Pyrrhic victory," Lieutenant Minter said in the Infantry Journal, writing of the successful conquest of Crete. "But in the long run it may have been a good investment, for the Nazi army cannot have failed to make radical changes in the plans for the projected invasion of England on the strength of the experiment."

Droppinf parachute troops on a defended area, without previous effective steps to neutralize the defense, "is like pouring dishwater down the drain," Minter contended.

I'm sorry I didn't ask him his name, because he was undoubtedly the greatest bowling coach who ever looked at an alley.

He was a nice, friendly old fellow, and he got a big kick out of helping the high school girls keep score that afternoon.

"I used to think this was great sport," he said, "and I was pretty good at it myself in my time. The last time I bowled I had 23 perfect throws.

* * *

"I have a niece in Chicago who is quite a bowler," he continued. "I raised her from the time she was 11 years old and I taught her how to bowl.

"She could bowl 280 and 275. And you know, that's bowling.

"But she never goes near the alleys now. She got married and took to raising kids."

I didn't have the heart to ask him whether that 280 was three-game total, or average, or occasional high game. I was so afraid he'd say average.

* * *

Pete Linster tells a story about a Mansfield athlete who went to Mt. Gilead to work, and decided he would like to bowl.

When the boys organized an inter-department league they asked him what his average was.

"Oh, a little bit over 300," he told them.

He'd heard about those 300 games, and he thought that was pretty fair bowling. He didn't get on a team.

The 41 to 0 defeat handed Springfield's Wildcats Friday night by Mansfield's Tygers was the worst beating Springfield has taken in the two years Jim McDonald has been coaching his alma mater.

But Jim was no more confused by the proceedings than were two guys who told everyone they were Springfield newspapermen.

* * *

It seems their favorite cheer was: "We shall not pass — a saloon." And they didn't.

But they weren't newspaper men. That I know. But their story got them into the game they couldn't see.

Buckeyes Prep for Wildcats

Face Northwestern After Close Victory.

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—Ohio State's football team began practicing today for its all-important game with Northwestern Saturday, but any tendency toward over-confidence had been removed by a tough Purdue team.

Although the Bucks defeated Purdue for their first conference victory of the season and their third straight win Saturday, nobody on the Ohio State scene was shooting off any fireworks.

* * *

Coach Paul Brown echoed the sentiments of the Buckeye cast today when he said, "we're glad we won but we're not proud of the way we did it."

* * *

In discussing the 16 to 14 win over Purdue in which the Buckeyes were saved from defeat by the watch, Brown said, "we weren't in top physical condition. The train trip home from Southern California took three days. Then we had two days of practice, two more days of rest before we started work for Purdue. I don't like an off Saturday once the season is under way."

Brown cited the clipping penalty which nullified Dick Fisher's 80-yard run for a touchdown as the break which put the Bucks in a bad hole from which they never recovered.

The penalty set the Bucks back on their own seven-yard line and Ken Smock ran back Jack Graf's punt to the Ohio 15 from where the Boilermakers started the drive for their first touchdown.

* * *

John Petty, who smashed over for both of Purdue's fourth-period scores, drew the praise from the Bucks as the spark-plug of the Boilermaker rally that almost upset Ohio State.

* * *

The Bucks were confronted with an injury problem as they started to get ready for the Wildcats who dropped a 14 to 7 decision to Michigan Saturday.

Graf, Charley Anderson, John Hallabrin and Fisher came out of the Purdue game with knee injuries.

"We don't know the extent of their injuries yet," Brown said, "and we won't be able to make any plans for Northwestern until we learn how seriously the boys have been hurt."

OHIOAN WINS SHOOT

VERSAILLES, Ind. —(AP)— Firing his final shot one-sixteenth of an inch closer to the bullseye than his finals opponent, L. M. Wolfe of Willshire, O., won the national muzzle-loading rifle championship yesterday before 25,000 persons. He defeated W. E. Faust of Lafontaine, Ind. Both men fired rifles they made themselves and scored 47 out of a possible 50 points at 55 yards. They were the survivors of a field of 100 competing in 26 matches over the three days of the tournament.

The Downtown Coaches association will hold a pep meeting at the high school Wednesday night at 8 o'clock to which the public is invited.

Ohioans Play Foreign Foes

Gridders Meet Teams From Other States.

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Ohio's collegiate gridders scatter in all directions next week-end as 10 teams go beyond the Buckeye borders to grapple with foreign foes, while 14 contests will be staged on the state's gridirons.

Missouri, Michigan, Indiana, Kansas, Tennessee and Pennsylvania will be invaded by Ohio squads, while visitors will be entertained from Michigan, Illinois and Indiana. Of the 11 games between opponents, seven are in the Ohio conference.

* * *

Topping the list, of course, is the Northwestern-Ohio State Big Ten scrap at the Buckeye stadium—with the Wildcats on the rebound after losing a 14-7 thriller to Michigan Saturday, and Ohio a bit uncertain of its defensive strength after nosing out Purdue 16-14.

* * *

Cincinnati's Bearcats, with only a 14-13 loss to Boston U. marring their five-game record, invade Knoxville for a tilt with Tennessee's vaunted Volunteers, who dropped a 9-2 decision to Alabama Saturday.

Ohio Wesleyan, which shares the state-wide lead with Heidelberg (each has won four, lost none) meets Miami, its "cousin," while the Student Princes tangle with Bowling Green in what looms as the week-end's small college thriller.

The schedule:

Friday night: Adrian (Mich.) at Findlay; Xavier at St. Louis U.

Saturday: Northwestern at Ohio State (Western conference); Kenyon at Capital, Marietta at Otterbein, Denison at Ohio Northern, Mount Union at Wittenberg, Wooster at Muskingum, Case at John Carroll, and Heidelberg at Bowling Green (all Ohio conference games); Baldwin-Wallace at Akron, Kent State at Western Reserve, Ohio Wesleyan at Miami, Bluffton at Ashland, DePauw (Ind.) at Oberlin, Toledo at Michigan Western State, Ohio U. at Butler, Dayton at Wichita, Kan.; Cincinnati at Tennessee, Youngstown at Waynesburg (night); DeSales at Central (Ind.) Normal, Rio Grande at Earlham, Defiance at St. Marys (Mich.), and Hiram at Allegheny.

Last week-end Ohio teams won six, lost five and tied one with out-of-tate opponents, giving the Buckeye clubs 31 victories, 26 defeats and two deadlocks in interstate competition for the campaign.

DETROIT KEEPS RECORD

STILLWATER, Okla.—(AP)—The tricky Titans from Detroit university scored three times within 10 minutes to win, 20 to 14, yesterday and keep an unbeaten record after getting off to a slow start against a surprising Oklahoma Aggie football attack.

Made Bow With Pro Gridders

John Kimbrough and Tommy Harmon.

Two of the greatest of the 1940 All-American football players, John Kimbrough of Texas A. & M., left, and Tommy Harmon of Michigan, are snapped on the practice field in New York before they played with the New York Americans in their first professional game. Each received $1,500 for appearing in the game.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
(By Special News Service)

NEW YORK—You may see a pro football world series one of these years, but not until the American leaguers show a lot better blocking than they did for Tom Harmon and John Kimbrough yesterday. . . . The question of the week is what sort of joy juice Minnesota and Michigan will find in the little Brown Jug Saturday. . . . Season's record long run—Notre Dame's new lightweight jersies. Every time someone tried to tackle an Irishman by the shirt it started a run. Too much dye, the manufacturer explained. . . . Wonder how good Navy is? Well, Coach Swede Larson is raving about the way Joe Hunt uses his tennis footwork on the football field, changing direction without breaking his stride, but Joe is only a fourth-string back.

PRO-GRAM NOTES

Jack McBride, the Americans' coach, says it's a quarterback's dream to have Harmon and Kimbrough in the same backfield . . . which may explain why some of McBride's quarterbacks seemed to be dreaming during yesterday's game. . . . Harmon, Jack added, was in fine shape but Jarrin' John's legs tightened up—showing the advantages of football movies over hoss operas. . . . Kimbrough, the cutie, claims pro football is easier than the college brand "because you don't play so much." . . . He should ask Mel Hein about that. . . . Charlie Callahan, the Americans' tub thumper, claims there were more people on the roofs outside Yankee stadium yesterday than there were inside for last year's opener.

LAST LAUGH

When Fred Haney, Toledo manager, was down in Tulsa for the Texas league playoffs, a stickup guy came along one night and demanded his dough. . . . Haney hauled out his checkbook and said, "Here, this is all I have." . . . The thug grabbed it and ran. . . . Telling about it later, Fred remarked longingly, "I wish he managed an American association team. That's one guy I could beat."

Galion Semi-Pros Lift A Victory

GALION—Another victory, the third in succession, was scored by the Galion Jay-Cees, semi-pro football team, in a game Sunday afternoon at Heise park, here. The Jay-Cees defeated the Collingwood Railroaders, 34 to 7. Taking advantage of breaks, Galion scored on a blocked punt with Gene Goldsmith making the score, and a short pass interception by Ernst in the first quarter.

Collingwood's only score came in the second period when Wellbaum returned a punt 55 yards.

Clabaugh scored from one-yard line in third quarter and in next period Corrado passed to Ernst for Galion's fourth touchdown and a few minutes later a series of Collingwood penalties put ball on the three from where Clabaugh crashed over.

Galion gained 180 yards to visitors 32, but Collingwood made 146 yards passing to Galion's 80.

Says Science Has Disproved Many Rules On Health

BERKELEY Cal.—(INS)—"Do you still cling to old-fashioned health rules which have no scientific foundation?"

Dr. Arthur H. Steinhaus, professor of physiology at Williams college and a member of the University of California Summer Session staff, answering the question, declared that they can be forgotten.

* * *

"Too often health rules were merely devices designed to force the prejudices of one generation on to the next," he stated.

Here are a few of the rules which Dr. Stenhaus says science has proved false:

Is there any danger in eating at irregular times? "The traditional three square meals a day is purely a matter of convenience. Much more sensible would it be to eat whenever we became hungry. For young children and certain adults who suffer terrible pangs, five, six, or seven light meals per day would be more effective."

"All such statements that warn against eating certain combinations of foods are groundless. The facts are that some people are allergic to shrimp, others to strawberries, and milk may harbor deleterious bacteria, but this has nothing to do with combinations."

Ran 109 Yards

J. M. CULBERSON

When J. M. Culberson, backfield star of the Darlington high school team of Rome, Ga., recently ran 109½ yards for a touchdown he set a new mark for distance runs. The former mark was 105 yards. Culberson intercepted a pass thrown into the end zone by the opposing team and scooted the full length of the field for score.

Bears Set Pro Grid Records

Chicago Team Goes Touchdown Crazy.

By TOM SILER

CHICAGO —(AP)— The National football league's record book will be as obsolete as last year's atlas unless some of the pro circuit's better minds contrive a defense to stop the touchdown-mad Chicago Bears.

The Bears, averaging just under 44 points a game, continue to show power, deception and speed such as pro football never has seen before. The champions, who already have set new marks for most yards in a single game (613) and most yards by passes in a game (376), need only to maintain their pace to rewrite the book.

Yesterday they rolled up 20 first downs in belting the Detroit Lions, 49 to 0, only one short of the league record for one game. This was the Bears' fourth straight victory and left them and the New York Giants as the only unbeaten teams.

New York, held to a 7-7 stalemate for two periods, snapped back with 21 points in the second half to whip Pittsburgh, 28 to 7 for five wins in a row.

Persistent Green Bay and Washington clung to the heels of the sectional leaders. Green Bay eked out a 17 to 14 victory over Cleveland on Don Hutson's last minute field goal for the Packers' fifth win in six games. Washington, likewise rallying in the waning minutes, went 56 yards on three passes for the winning touchdown over Philadelphia, 21 to 17.

Brooklyn virtually bowed out of the eastern race by losing to Jimmy Conzelman's Chicago Cardinals, 20 to 6.

* * *

Next Sunday's schedule:
New York at Brooklyn.
Pittsburgh at Chicago Bears.
Chicago Cardinals at Philadelphia.
Green Bay at Detroit.
Cleveland at Washington.

WORLD SERIES CHECKS SENT PLAYERS TODAY

NEW YORK —(INS)— Checks were in the mail today for 1941 major league baseball winners, with 31 of the Champion New York Yankees drawing $5,943 for their world series triumph over Brooklyn.

Next to the $6,471 that each New York player received after the 1937 world series, the recent fall classic was the most profitable for the Yankee performers. Also mailed out from the office of Judge Landis was approximately $4,831 for each of the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Packers Nip Rams, 17-14

Hutson's Kick Beats Cleveland Pro Team.

CLEVELAND — (INS) — Local football fandom today had as much respect for Don Hutson's accurate right foot as they do for his ability as a pass receiver.

It was Hutson's field goal from the 13-yard line in the closing minute of play which enabled the Green Bay Packers to eke out a 17-14 victory over the Cleveland Rams yesterday in Municipal stadium.

* * *

The Rams scored first in the opening period on an 80-yard drive, culminated by Hall's pass to McDonough for the touchdown.

* * *

An Isbell pass to Mulleneaux who made a diving catch in the end zone, tied it up. The Packers then went out in front in the third period on another sustained drive, featured by Isbell's passes, with Hinkle blasting over from the one.

The desperate Rams flared back in the fourth quarter to again tie up the game when Hall shot a 20-yard heave to Dante Magniani who raced to the one, from which point Drake plowed over.

Bissman's Beat Port Clinton

Bissman Birdie Brand bowlers came close to their 3,000 score of the week before, and missed a 1,000 game by just one pin as they took a 3 to 0 victory over Avalon Night Club in the N. C. O. traveling league at Port Clinton yesterday.

* * *

LeMunyon rolled high total of 646, and Dale Cleckner had 640. with every game over the 200 mark. Sonny Meder had high game of 227.

* * *

Mansfield Eagles lost a 2-1 decision in the traveling league at Norwalk although they scored 73 more points than the winners.

Liederkranz also lost a 2-1 match to Urb's Cafe of Port Clinton at the Colony alleys. Harold Selby led the clubmen with 602.

Americans Bulls Play Tie Game

Columbus Team Holds Harmon, Kimbrough.

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK—(AP)—Tommy Harmon and John Kimbrough didn't do much more than pat each other encouragingly on their shoulder pads in their professional debut yesterday, but they may have done something vastly important for the struggling American league.

When 25,385 fans paid their way into Yankee stadium to see the two famous All-Americans perform and, incidentally, to watch the Columbus Bulls and the New York Americans struggle to a 7-7 tie, it marked the first time the ambitious second major league had drawn really important money and cut seriously into the patronage of the prosperous National league.

This, of course, was what the new owner of the Americans, William Cox, was counting on when he paid Kimbrough and Harmon $1,500 each to get out there and fight. Yesterday's gathering paid him many times for the investment, and it may have marked that turning point that every new league must have. A National league game between the New York Giants and Pittsburgh at the Polo Grounds drew only 24,604, not all paid.

* * *

It may have been only a one-day wonder. Such a crowd may never turn out again to see the Americans, even if Harmon and Kimbrough get themselves into playing condition and put on the kind of football of which they are capable. But for one afternoon, at least, you can bet that the National league magnates had a headache.

After the game, in which he scored his team's touchdown on a reverse from Kimbrough, Harmon said he didn't know whether he would be able to try it again next Sunday, when the Americans play Buffalo here.

The crowd had gathered to see Kimbrough smash the line and Harmon rip the ends, and what did it see? It saw a young man named Bob (Twenty Grand) Davis, out of Kentucky university, play a sensational game for Columbus while Harmon and Kimbrough alternated between gasping for breath on the bench and getting tossed on their moleskins on the field.

SLATE BOXING CARD

CLEVELAND — (INS) — What many fans are calling the best fight card ever to be staged in Cleveland, was ready for the bell at the Arena tonight where close to 12,000 fans are expected to see the featured 10-rounder between Lem Franklin, Chicago Negro kayo artist, and 250-pound Abe Simon of New York.

ALSAB WINS AGAIN

LAUREL, Md.—(INS)—Alsab, the nation's two-year-old turf champion, rested on his laurels today after adding the historic Spalding-Lowe Jenkins stakes to his list of triumphs. Mrs. Albert Sabath's steed scurried home four lengths ahead of the field in this featured race at Laurel race track over the week-end.

CHANGE OPPONENTS

OBERLIN—(AP)—Oberlin college officials have announced that Depauw university, of Greencastle, Ind., will replace the Swarthmore eleven here next Saturday as Oberlin celebrates its homecoming. The contest with Swarthmore was cancelled because Swarthmore Tackle Barton Jenks has infantile paralysis, Oberlin officials explained.

CHAPTER XXXI

There had been time during that period of drama on and about the oil derrick for amateur photographers in the crowd to take some excellent pictures, and a selection of these appeared in Monday's papers from Houston, Dallas, Shreveport, and later all over the nation. The townsfolk were in a continual stir about the whole thing. All that Sunday evening and until Monday, people motored by the Mayfield home just to stare, or parked to look at the derrick and talk over the whole thing again. Many cars on Monday had come from towns 40 and 50 miles distant.

As for Jason Weems—that gentleman of dark skin had come into his own. What he and everybody else had fully expected to be his hour to go to glory, had turned out to be a sort of paradise on earth.

"He had a bad shock," Dr. Tower admitted on Monday. Scared out of his wits. But then, who wasn't? The wound was superficial. He'll be fit in a week or two. Right now he is basking in the adulation of his friends—because the newspapers carried two-column pictures of him. But that's okay too; we're all proud of Jason."

Dal did not leave Lillian's side for more than a few minutes all that Monday, and she in turn clung near him with almost worshipful air. Monday evening, in the quiet gathering in Mrs. Mayfield's living room, Thad Monroe introduced the first moment of respectful but genuinely welcome let-down, a sort of levity which was release from the strain they had all felt. One would have thought—except for the telltale look in his eyes—that Thad Monroe was the happy, spirited goodfellow he had been before oil well days.

"Now, the time has come, it seems to me, for us to talk about another matter," he began. "Unless I'm blind and stupid, Dal, you're likely to be a married man pretty soon. Hmmm?" Thad was suddenly smiling.

Dal brightened, and Lillian turned to Thad in sudden alarm. Thad went on.

"Tell you the truth, Tower, you just naturally took Lillian away from all us home town yokels. Now you take me—I was engaged to her myself, you know. Remember I told you so that first night."

Dal grinned. "I remember. So did M. J. Parker, and Martin Deale. I believed it when the first one spoke. But how did you know Lillian and I—?"

"Ha! Plain as a billboard! I been kiddin her about it for weeks, matter of fact. Pretending I was still engaged to her. "We—"

Lillian interrupted. "Thad! You mean—?" She was astonished for a moment. But when he went on talking she began to understand, and she looked at him in infinite gratitude.

"—we kidded each other a lot about it, Dal. I even had Mrs. Mayfield ribbed up. Trying to pretend I'd make a perfect son-in-law."

He paused to laugh a bit, at himself. Dal was still smiling.

"But it didn't work," Thad resumed. "I've been the razz boy too long. No woman ever takes me seriously, confound it! I've got to study your system, Tower. How about a few lessons in technique?"

"It's not technique, Thad. Just blind luck. I don't deserve mine. Then you folks really do know that—that Lillian and I seriously love each other, and want to—to—?"

Mrs. Mayfield had been acutely distressed by all of this conversation, and Baby Doll simply listened wide-eyed. Mrs. Haltom, neighbor and close friend who had clung near Millicent Mayfield all this trying week-end, was suddenly beaming at them, though.

"Why, Dr. Tower," the townsfolk have all said that you and Lillian were a perfect match," Mrs. Haltom declared. "Dr. Watkins frankly admits he planned it, the old reprobate!" She laughed happily with them. "Have you fancied people didn't know? Or that—?"

"It's what I was saying," Thad interrupted. "They're a natural. Congratulations, Tower, damn it! And I hereby release you from any and all claims I had on you, Lillian—if any, I mean!"

He said it in an emphatic spirit of fun—but he looked straight and meaningfully at Lillian as he spoke. She was in the crook of Dal's arm and her eyes were misty when she finally answered Thad.

"I'll always remember this, Thad. Always! And I'll tell you what I've told you before—you're the nicest, most considerate friend I ever had. I do love Dal. I can't help it, I just naturally do! And you've liked him; you said so from the first. You've always been so much fun but I—I know how deep you are, too!"

They both glanced quickly at Dal, then back at each other in deep understanding, satisfied.

"Great gosh, such talk!" Thad grinned elaborately. "You'd think I really was a jilted suitor, to hear the girl run on this way!"

The wedding was held just two weeks later.

It was a quiet affair in the Methodist church with only the kinsmen and the intimate friends of the Mayfield family and a few of Dal's relatives there. Dal's had come down from the north. Lillian did not even have a bridal costume. She didn't want it. She preferred to be married in a travel suit so she could slip hurriedly away. "Among those present," the local newspaper subsequently printed, "were several colored people, including Jason Weems of recent prominence, who has lived with the Mayfield family for many years."

The bride and groom departed in Thad Monroe's airplane. He loaned it, with a pilot, to fly them to Dallas where they could catch a transcontinental air liner and fly to New York for a honeymoon. They would come back via the Atlantic and the gulf, a slow sea voyage back to Galveston, Houston and home again in about a month.

A hundred or more friends saw them off at the local airport. When the gaieties were over and the two were being lifted, Dal leaned close to his bride to speak above the plane's roar.

"Even Martin was there," he said. "Martin Deale. With Baby Doll. Look—she's holding his arm, and they're both waving!"

She snuggled closer to him and did not speak.

"Over yonder, sweetheart, is Buford Hill — remember? And still farther on is Buford's Pond. You can see it! When we come back I shall build us a home there in the oak and the hickory trees."

"Oh, Dal!"

"Unh hunh. The town and country authorities have set aside that region—never any oil wells in sight, only residential development. And we'll build a place with a broad east porch, for friends and fun! Crepe myrtles and honeysuckles and mock oranges can be grown in a few months. Lordy but you're beautiful, little girl!"

Nazi Target In Tobruk

THEATERS

Air Thriller.

Combat pictures filmed by the R. A. F. in action, a reproduction of the battle of Dunkirk made in co-operation with the British air ministry and dozens of other thrilling scenes make "A Yank In the R. A. F.," showing at the Ohio, one of the most widely discussed pictures of the year. Tyrone Power is starred as the Yank, who becomes bored while in London, and joins the R. A. F. Betty Grable gets a chance to enliven the film with singing and dancing as an American chorine in London who meets up with Power. John Sutton and Reginald Gardiner are in the supporting cast boasting thousands of extra players.

Greer Garson plays the role of the Texas woman "who fell in love with 2,000 babies" in "Blossoms In the Dust," technicolor drama, showing at the Madison. As Edna Gladney, whose interest in obtaining homes for unwanted children led to her appointment as superintendent of the Texas Children's Home and Aid society in Fort Worth, Miss Garson is supported by Walter Pidgeon in the role of Sam Gladney, Edna's husband. A romance of the Gibson Girl era is woven in the picture which also casts Marsha Hunt, Fay Holden and scores of adorable children and babies. The F. B. I. is shown at work in "Man At Large," the second attraction.

Technicolor Musical.

Betty Grable and Don Ameche play the same game in "Moon Over Miami," technicolor musical showing at the Ritz. Both down to their last cent they take a fling at Miami in an effort to wed wealth and then end up by falling in love with each other. Miami's glamorous atmosphere has been caught by the camera along with spectacular production numbers, one of them featuring Miss Grable in a Congo with Hermes Pan, dance director of the picture. Robert Cummings, Charlotte Greenwood and Carole Landis are cast. The Marx brothers in "The Big Store," with Tony Martin is the co-attraction.

Matrimonial Comedy.

The matrimonial complications of a preoccupied husband and an unoccupied wife provide comedy in "My Life With Caroline," starring Ronald Colman at the Park. Featuring Anna Lee, the British actress, in the role of the wife, the picture also casts Reginald Gardiner and Gilbert Roland as the young men who dance attendance when the husband is busy. Billy Conn, contender for the world heavyweight championship, makes his screen debut in "The Pittsburgh Kid," the second picture. Jean Parker is in the cast.

Refugee Drama.

Stemming from the harrowing predicaments in which European exiles find themselves, "So Ends Our Night," playing at the Majestic, is the story of a political refugee who believes he can triumph over oppression. Starring Fredric March with a stellar cast including Margaret Sullavan, Frances Dee, Anna Sten and Erich von Stroheim the picture shuttles from one foreign capital to another as the exiles seek peace and safety. "Go West," a Marx brothers' feature with Walter Woolf King shares the bill.

ORDINANCE NO. 41-206

By Mr. Berg:

An Ordinance determining to proceed with the improvement of Arlington Avenue from Euclid Avenue to Taylor Road by grading the street to the established grade and graveling the roadway with some suitable material, etc., and authorizing the issuance and sale of bonds to pay for said improvement.

Be It Ordained by the Council of the City of Mansfield, State of Ohio, Three-fourths of all the members elected thereto concurring:

Sec. 1. That it is hereby determined to proceed with the improvement of Arlington Avenue from Euclid Avenue to Taylor Road by grading the street to the established grade and graveling the roadway with some suitable material, etc., in accordance with Resolution No. 41-176 passed September 2, 1941 and in accordance with the plans, specifications, estimates and profiles of said improvement heretofore approved and now on file in the office of the Department of Public Service of said city.

Sec. 2. That all claims for damages resulting therefrom shall be judicially inquired into after completion of the proposed improvement.

Sec. 3. That the whole cost of said improvement, less the cost of intersections and one-fiftieth of the total cost shall be assessed by the foot front upon the lots and lands bounding and abutting upon the proposed improvement, and the remaining portion of the cost of said proposed improvement shall be paid by the City of Mansfield, Ohio.

That to provide a fund for the payment of the portion of the cost and expense for which special assessments are authorized to be levied for the improvement of Arlington Avenue as aforesaid, the Mayor and Auditor be and they are hereby authorized to issue, advertise for sale and sell according to law One Thousand Nine Hundred Fifty ($1950.00) Dollars of Street Assessment Bonds of the City of Mansfield, Ohio, in denominations of from 50 to 1000 Dollars each, payable in from One to Three years, and bearing interest at the same rate to be borne by the bonds to be issued therefor, payable semi-annually.

That to provide a fund to pay that portion of cost of said improvement which has to be paid by the City of Mansfield, Ohio, to-wit: $400.00 to be paid out of the Gas Tax 5/6 Fund.

And the proceeds thereof shall be applied to the payment of the cost and expense of said improvement as aforesaid, and to no other purpose whatsoever.

An annual levy shall be made during the term of said bonds in an amount sufficient to pay the interest on the same and to provide a sinking fund for their redemption as they mature.

Sec. 4. That the following lots and lands shall be assessed for said improvement as above determined. All the lots and lands bounding and abutting upon said improvement on Arlington Avenue between Euclid Avenue and Taylor Road.

Sec. 5. That upon the sale of said bonds the proceeds thereof, together with the moneys received, if any, from the cash payments of assessments, shall be placed in the City Treasury; the accrued interest and premiums shall be placed to the credit of the sinking fund, and the remaining portion of the purchase price of said bonds shall be placed to the credit of Arlington Avenue street improvement fund and disbursed upon proper vouchers in payment of the cost and expense of the improvement aforesaid, and all moneys coming into said Arlington Avenue street improvement fund are hereby appropriated for the purpose of said disbursements.

Sec. 6. That the Director of Public Service be and he is hereby authorized and directed to advertise for bids and to make and execute a contract for said improvement with the lowest and best bidder, according to law.

Sec. 7. This ordinance shall take effect and be in force from and after the earliest period allowed by law.

Passed Oct. 7, 1941.

HOWARD G. MILLER, President of Council.

Attest: WM. J. BEER, JR., Clerk of Council.

Approved: W. J. LOCKE, Mayor.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE—"Into the Jaws of Death." By Harold Gray

THAT OFFICIOUS HRYIN' YOUNG #!!!! OWWW···MY HEAD! AND THAT BIG ZOMBIE···GAD! HE CUT MY BOYS DOWN LIKE WEEDS!
10-20-41
SHOT THEIR WAY IN, BUT A LOT O' GOOD THAT'LL DO 'EM···HA! HA! I HEARD TH' BLAST GO THAT TOOK OUT TH' DAM···TH' MINES FLOODED CLEAR TO TH' NECK BY NOW· LET 'EM LOOK IN THERE!
WATER! THAT EXPLOSION, ASP! THEY MUST JUST HAVE BLOWN OUT A BULKHEAD AND FLOODED THE MINE-
YES··AND DROWNED ALL THE MINERS WHO WERE DOWN BELOW-
AW, IT WAS AN ACCIDENT, SEE? NOBODY EVER CAN PROVE DIFFERENT· YOU CAN'T DO NOTHIN' TO US-
PERHAPS· MY UNSAVORY ONES, ANOTHER "ACCIDENT" COULD OCCUR··· ···TO YOU!

PAM—Last Straw! By A. W. Brewerton

AND YOU HAVEN'T HEARD FROM HIM SINCE HE CAME BY TO TELL YOU HE THOUGHT OF ENLISTING
NO, I HAVEN'T, DAVID
AND HE'S BEEN PHONING ME SO OFTEN IN THE EVENINGS
10-20
BUT I JUST CAN'T BELIEVE HE'D GO TO A TRAINING CAMP WITHOUT TELLING ME, GOOD-BYE!
KNOW WHERE HE LIVED?
YES, HE GAVE HIS ADDRESS TO COLONEL CAREY.
WE MIGHT TRY TO LOCATE HIM.

NEED $100? HERE'S WHAT TO DO

Tell us how much you need, $20 to $500; how much you can repay monthly; and answer a few simple questions.

Loans made three ways: (1) on signature; (2) on car; (3) on furniture. No endorsers. Friends or relatives are not told. Fair treatment in case of sickness or unemployment. Payments include charges of 2% monthly on balances of $300 or less and 1½% monthly on any remainder—the same rate to everyone. Nothing else to pay. To apply—phone, write or visit office. Money ready next day—or sooner if necessary.

STOCKS HOLD THEIR BALANCE IN SLOW MART

Fears of New Far-Eastern Upset Keep Traders In Neutral Territory.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Stocks generally maintained their balance in today's market although further recovery inclinations were feeble in the majority of cases.

Attracting early support were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Youngstown Sheet, American Telephone, Chrysler, U. S. Rubber, Boeing, Montgomery Ward and Sears Roebuck.

Most in Wall Street believed markets had pretty well discounted cloudy international developments but fears of a new Far Eastern upset and depressing news from the German-Russian battle fronts served to keep many potential buyers in neutral territory.

Boardrooms studied the survey of the magazine "Steel" which warned that labor difficulties and the growing scrap shortage accentuated the possibility output in the steel industry would be severely curtailed before the end of the winter.

Considered also was the announcement of the federal reserve board that, while industrial activity in September was about unchanged from that of August, a flattening out of the lengthy upward curve now was under way.

DAUGHERTY WILL AIDS CHARITIES

Estate of Former Attorney General Estimated at $300,000.

COLUMBUS—(INS)—An estate estimated at more than $300,000 was left by former U. S. Atty. Gen. Harry M. Daugherty to his immediate family, faithful employes and charity under terms of a will filed here today.

All the personal letters and records of the man who guided Warren G. Harding into the presidency may be sold, the will provides, except one letter from Harding, dated Jan. 26, 1923 and used in Daugherty's book, "The Inside Story of the Harding Tragedy."

This letter was given to the sole possession of Daugherty's daughter, Mrs. Emily D. Racey, who, with Daugherty's brother, Mal S. Daugherty of Washington C. H., are chief beneficiaries of the estate.

RESINOL

Be Quick To Treat Bronchitis

Chronic bronchitis may develop if your cough, chest cold, or acute bronchitis is not treated and you cannot afford to take a chance with any medicine less potent than Creomulsion which goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes.

Creomulsion blends beechwood creosote by special process with other time tested medicines for coughs. It contains no narcotics.

No matter how many medicines you have tried, tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough, permitting rest and sleep, or you are to have your money back. (Adv.)

IMPRISON FIVE

Robbers Lock 4 Men, Woman In Refrigerator, Steal $2,000.

AKRON — (U.P.) — Two robbers locked four men and a woman in a meat refrigerator and took $2,000 in cash and checks from the strongbox of the Bloom Packing company today.

The robbers entered the company office and forced Irwin Bloom, Happy Beail, Victor Lozoran and another man into the refrigerator.

Then they commanded Bella Bloom, an employe, to open the safe. After taking the contents of the strongbox, they locked her in the refrigerator also. The five persons escaped from the refrigerator through a trap door in the ceiling.

FBI SILENT ON WRECK SUSPECT

Agents Refuse to Disclose Details Of Questioning at Findlay.

FINDLAY— (U.P.) —Federal bureau of investigation agents today refused to disclose the result of their week-end questioning of Joe Farro, 72, transient, held in Hancock county jail as a suspect in the unsolved wreck of the city of San Francisco streamlined train in Nevada two years ago.

Agents from the FBI office in Cleveland were to question Farro today.

Arrested on a vagrancy charge, Farro's fingerprints were reported by Sheriff Lyle Harvitt to tally with those found on a crowbar at the scene of the streamliner wreck which killed 24 persons.

WILL BE CITED

PORTSMOUTH —(AP)— Sheriff Earl Brandel said he would file a manslaughter charge today against Waynard Mosley, 31, following the death of John Bloomfield, 23, of a brain concussion. Brandel asserted Bloomfield was injured in a fight with Mosley.

BLAME YOUR LAZY LIVER BILE IF-

CONSTIPATION with its headaches, mental dullness and that "half-alive" feeling may often result when your liver doesn't secrete 20 to 30 ounces of bile every day into your intestines. So you see how important it is to keep bile flowing freely! And what finer aid could one desire than Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, used so successfully for years by Dr. F. M. Edwards for treating his patients for constipation and sluggish liver bile.

Olive Tablets are unsurpassed in effectiveness because they stir up liver bile secretion to help digest fatty foods, they tone up muscular intestinal action, at the same time help elimination. Being purely vegetable, Olive Tablets are wonderful! Test their supreme goodness TONIGHT! 15¢, 30¢, 60¢. All drugstores.
